2 AUTO FIRE VICTIMS FROM SOUTH BOSTON

15,000 Tons Welsh Coal on Way Here

Wrecked Car and 2 Tragedy Victims

Girl and Youth Who Met Tragic End in Ruins of Blazing Auto

FOUND DEATH AWAITING THEM ON STATE ROAD

IDENTIFY 3 KILLED IN MOTOR TRAGEDY

Girl and 2 Men Companions Burned to Death Amid Wreckage of Car

The three persons decapitated and then burned on the state road in Hingham early today when an automobile in which they were riding at terrific speed crashed into a parked auto truck have been identified: They were:

Miss Lily Schofield, twenty-six years old, of No. 700 East Fifth street, South Boston.

Thomas Gorham, No. 29 Baxter street, South Boston.

Earl Finley of No. 63 Old Colony avenue, Wollaston.

They were speeding home from a Summer camp at Mayflower Grove, Bryantville.

Two young men, who, at the last minute, decided not to accompany them, probably escaped death. They are Joseph Casey of No. 214 D street, South Boston, and John Delahanty of Bennington street, East Boston.

The Boston American made the identifications and was the first to bring news of the fatal accident to members of the dead trio's families. In each instance families had to be aroused from beds early today. News of the positive identifications made

MORE FROM ABROAD IS COMING

Act to Insure City's Supply as the Soft Coal Miners Threaten Strike

London Aug. 24.—A cargo of 15,000 tons of Welsh anthracite coal has left Swansea for Boston. It is stated that the price was 68 shillings approximately $15.44) per ton, including the freight charge, as compared with 60 shillings which is said here to be the price of American anthracite on the spot.

Other American orders are expected in South Wales.

Washington, Aug. 24 (I.N.S.)—Despite menacing reports from Atlantic City, President Coolidge still entertained unshaken hope today that anthracite operators and miners, by voluntary resumption of wage negotiations, will avert a hard coal strike.

At the same time, however, the chief Executive, ready for any eventuality has perfected all plans for a nation-wide distribution of substitutes for hard coal.

The Federal Government directly indirectly contemplates no immediate step to bring peace by inviting the warring factions back to the council table.

Negotiations are being conducted by the administration to make permanent the substitute distribution organization so that whenever a coal strike threatens in the future, the

NEW TRIAL SOUGHT FOR J. T. GETTIGAN

J. Thos. Gettigan

Roscoe Wallsworth, counsel for J. Thomas Gettigan, Revere grocer sentenced to fifteen-year sentence for manslaughter in connection with the death of his aunt, Mrs. Lizzie M. Cook, today filed a motion for a new trial in Suffolk Superior Court.

He also brought a bill in equity against four witnesses, three of whom appeared for the Government, charging them with conspiracy to convict Gettigan fraudulently, illegally and by perjury." The conspiracy, it

TWO ARRAIGNED IN MARLBORO MURDER

Hugo Baldi of Somerville and Barbardo Martino of Newton were taken from their cells in East Cambridge jail to appear before Judge Weeks in District court at Marlboro today.

The men are charged with murder in connection with the fatal shooting on August 13 of John P. Giroaurd, president of the People's Ice Company of Marlboro. The killing of Giroaurd followed a fight between bootleggers and hi-jackers.

Baldi and Martino were represented in court by Attorney Felix Marcello of Boston. By arrangement previously made between the government and the defence, the case was adjourned a week, without pleadings.

LEVIATHAN BEATS OLYMPIC 14 HOURS IN RACE ACROSS

London, Aug. 24, (P)—The Leviathan arrived in Cherbourg at five o'clock this morning and is due in Southampton at one o'clock this afternoon.

At the offices of the White Star line it was said that the steamship Olympic, which cleared Sandy Hook last Saturday about half an hour before the great American liner, was scheduled to arrive at the French port at 6:30 o'clock this evening and at Southampton tomorrow morning.

The Leviathan cleared Sandy Hook bar at 12:25 o'clock last Saturday afternoon, just 35 minutes after the Olympic had passed the same point.

LYNN BURGLARS IN 5 BREAKS; TOTAL LOOT LESS THAN $100

It was a tough night for second story workers in Lynn.

According to reports made to the police today, five places were broken into, but the only loot at same obtained was a diamond ring worth $80. This was taken from the room of Russell Anderson at No. 921 Western avenue.

At the home of Herbert Hill, No. 15 Rockway street, two burglars were discovered by Mr. Hill, but made their escape empty handed. A short time later two men entered the house of Louis Mariner, No. 341 Essex street, but were also frightened away.

At Khem's Bakery, No. 324 Broadway, the night baker caused burglars to take to their heels. At the Fralis Battery Company, No. 419 Broadway, they were more successful, obtaining a few flashlights.

12 RESCUED AT BLAZE IN MATTAPAN

Two Pedestrians Enter Burning Home and Lead Occupants Safely to Street

Aroused by two passersby who broke their way into the building, twelve occupants of the three-story house at No. 16 Haverlock street, Mattapan, escaped unharmed today from a fire which caused $1,500 damage.

The blaze, which firemen and police say probably was caused by careless dropping of a lighted cigarette, started on the top floor, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Sam Bunsen and their three children, Dorothy, three years, and Sidney and Melvin, five-months-old twins, and a brother-in-law of Bunsen.

The entire Bunsen family slept on as the flames gained rapid headway, the smoke attracting the attention of two men who were passing.

These men broke in the front door of the house and rushed to the top floor, arousing the Bunsens.

The latter, all in their night clothing, were led through the smoke down the stairs to the street by the two rescuers. All were made temporarily ill by the smoke.

The rescuers then re-entered the house and led Mr. and Mrs. Sam Weiner and their two children, occupants of the second floor, to safety. In the meantime two tenants occupying the lower floor were awakened and left the building.

The damage was confined chiefly to the Bunsen quarters.

MAIL FLIER ABOUT 3 HOURS AHEAD

Cleveland, Aug. 24.—Lieut. R. L. Wagner, east bound in the air mail plane test flight, landed here at 8:46 a. m., daylight saving time from Chicago. Two minutes was taken to transfer the mail, Pilot W. L. Smith leaving at 8:48 a. m. for New York, nearly three hours ahead of the schedule.

HUNDREDS ARE DELAYED BY SUBWAY DERAILMENT

Traffic in the subway between Park street and Scollay square was blocked for more than an hour when a Lechmere-Broadway car went off the track.

Hundreds of commuters on their way to work jammed the passage seeking points of exit. Many transferred to the Washington street terminal where they continued their travels on transfers. Meantime a wrecking crew worked frantically to get the derailed car on its way again.

SNOWSTORMS AND FROSTS IN NORTHERN NEW YORK

Big Moose, N. Y., Aug. 24 (I.N.S.)—Shivering northern New York awoke today to learn this section of the mountains was visited by a snow storm last night.

Only a few flakes fell, according to trainmen on the New York Central Railroad but it was enough to be called snow.

Places to the north today reported a thin coating of ice near the shore of some lakes and ponds. There have been several killing frosts in the last week.

LYNN POLICE HUNT PEEPING TOM

Lynn police are trying to identify a man who was seen by Mrs. Gladys Kenyon of No. 47 Eutaw avenue, Lynn, peeping through her bedroom window as she was counting her money. She called her husband, Charles W. Kenyon, and the men ran off.

50 DEAD, 100 HURT IN VILNA TRAIN WRECK

Moscow, Aug. 24.—More than 50 persons were killed and approximately 100 injured when a train proceeding from Vilna to Warsaw left the track near Lida and crashed into a dam, which burst, the rush of waters helping to swell the casualty list.

TOGUS, Me.—Captain Hugh Doyle died here, aged seventy-seven years. He was a veteran of the Civil War and later of the regular army. He leaves a widow and daughter, Mrs. Fresno of Somerville, Mass.

COOLIDGE STILL HAS HOPE COAL STRIKE WILL BE AVERTED

GETS READY TO URGE BOYCOTT

country will be assured of a steady supply of fuel.

On this basis the administration has charted its course in dealing with the threatened hard coal tie-up.

MAY GET TOGETHER

Because of the belief that government interference at this moment not only would be met with failure, but would add complexity to an already perplexing situation, it was declared at the White House today that both President Coolidge and John Hays Hammond, chairman of the United States Coal Commission feel the next move must, and will, come from Atlantic City, where the operators and miners are encamped.

The growing belief in well-informed circles here is that the disputants, now that they have seen the Government's promise to supply the country with fuel regardless of a strike is not an idle boast or a mere threat, but one capable of actual fulfilment, will perhaps resolutely resume wage discussions which have been broken or twice within a month.

This particularly was the optimistic view held by Hammond, who all along has expressed the belief there would be no strike. It was pointed out that the Administration's distribution plan was nothing but a sanctioned National boycott of hard coal.

To permit by strike the country to become accustomed to burning substitutes, with the imminent possibility that the demand for hard coal thereby would be materially short of calamity to both operators and miners; a move which neither well could afford to make.

GENERALLY DISPARAGED.

So well satisfied is the administration that a suspension of hard coal production would not injure the country because of the distribution plan, reports that bituminous workers might "go on vacation in sympathy for anthracite miners" were generally disparaged, although John Marks, vice-president of the soft coal miners' union today admitted at Atlantic City that the 48,000 miners in his district would favor a sympathetic strike if the offer of John C. Bryden, president of the National Coal Association, to flood the anthracite consuming territory with soft coal is accepted by the government.

At the same time, he pointed out, the soft coal miners have a contract with the operators which does not expire until next March. Lewis informed reporters that "The United Mine Workers never break a contract."

TO KEEP WADLEIGH.

Under law, the office of the federal fuel distributor expires on September 22. If a strike is called, and if not over by that time, Mr. Coolidge plans by executive order to keep E. F. Wadleigh at the head of the government's distribution agencies it was declared today.

Plans for keeping in existence the national and State fuel distribution offices will be completed at the New York conference of governors next Tuesday.

Immediately upon receipt of word from Atlantic City that bituminous union chiefs had agreed to aid and to the hard coal miners, Chairman John Hays Hammond, of the United States Coal Commission, went to the White House. He was received by President Coolidge at once. They remained in consultation three quarters of an hour.

COOLIDGE'S VIEW

Mr. Coolidge's view of the bituminous strike threat was indicated by Chairman Hammond when he came out. He said:

"A strike of the miners in the soft coal fields would be an absolute breach of contract. They are under solemn obligation to remain at work through next March 31."

Asked if the new phase of the situation would result in anything further being done to compose the difficulties between the miners and operators, Mr. Hammond declared:

"There is nothing else that we can do for the present. We brought them together once. They had their opportunity to come in out of the rain. If they want to stay out and get wet that's their business."

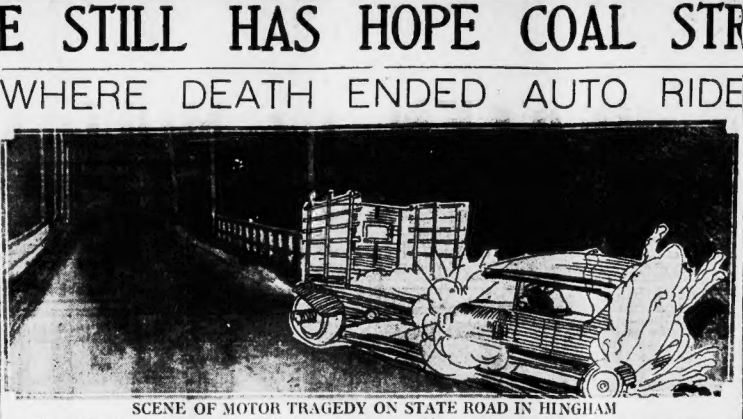
It was understood that Mr. Coolidge was occupied during the day with the preparation of a statement which he will be ready to issue the moment he decides the time has come for him to speak. It will not be given out as long as there is a chance of an agreement.

In line with this determination not to foreclose any possibility of an agreement, the Coal Commission's report, which he has ordered prepared, fixing the responsibility for the failure of the negotiations, will be withheld until after midnight August 31. The miners' contract runs until that time. Developments between now and then easily might alter the situation with regard to which side is to be blamed.

Chairman Hammond said it would be "foolish and premature" to brand one side or the other as guilty before September 1. He declared:

"If we started fixing the blame today, those men never would get together. We would not embarrass the President by telling him in advance whom we believe responsible. We don't even know ourselves yet. We will be guided largely by which way the cat jumps."

WHERE DEATH ENDED AUTO RIDE



SCENE OF MOTOR TRAGEDY ON STATE ROAD IN HINGHAM

Photo diagram shows how touring car continuing two young men and a girl crashed into a disabled truck, caught fire and caused death to all three occupants of the auto. The victims were knocked senseless by the impact and lay helpless in the blazing wreckage. Their bodies were burned almost beyond recognition. Other autoists who witnessed the tragedy were unable to assist the doomed victims. The trio who perished were Miss Lily Schofield, South Boston; Thomas Gorham, South Boston, and Earl Finley, Wollaston.

N. E. Governors Asked to Protect Coal Users

Following failure of the New England Governors in session in the State House to act on the recommendation of the joint special coal investigation committee that New England be placed on war-time coal ration, Senator John W. Haigis, chairman of the committee, appeared before the Governors and urged that immediate action be taken.

The Governors declined to act on the recommendation, some arguing that the threatened coal strike was a problem to be handled by each State individually.

The Senator impressed upon the Governors the necessity of providing for the future should the present emergency be passed. To that end, he recommended that a permanent fuel commission be created in every anthracite consuming State.

Senator Haigis did not refer again to the proposal to place New England on a wartime coal basis, but he impressed upon the executives that public sentiment demanded some action at once to protect the people in the event of a strike.

"What the public wants to know from you gentlemen and from other official agencies," Senator Haigis said, "is 'what are you going to do about it?' The time has come for less talk and more action. You ought not to wait until August 28, because the situation demands immediate action."

Protection of Mines Worrying Operators

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 24.—Necessity for completing some arrangements that will prevent anthracite mines from permanent injury from flooding and caveins after September 1, in the event of a strike, was said to be a chief factor in holding representatives of anthracite mine operators and officials of the Miners' Union in Atlantic City today.

No joint discussion of the terms on which the union would allow pumpmen, engineers and maintenance men to continue in service when the mines of the nine workers are out, had been entered upon, but both groups were known to have the matter in mind.

No other than this point, there was held to be today no prospect of any renewal of the negotiations.

Illinois Soft Coal Men to Remain in Mines

Chicago, Aug. 24. (AP)—Apprehension that a sympathetic strike in the soft coal fields in Illinois would follow an anthracite strike today was largely allayed following the announcement of Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois mine workers that there was no thought of a suspension in the bituminous fields.

Coal operators who met with mine union officials here said there was a plentiful supply of bituminous coal above ground to supply any emergency demand in the Middle West.

MILFORD MAN DEAD IN CYCLE CRASH

Milford, Aug. 24.—Luigi DePaiva of Ludlow, former resident, died in Worcester City Hospital as the result of injuries received in a motorcycle accident while returning home from Milford.

DePaiva was accompanied by Antonio Da Silva of Ludlow, the latter now being ill in Ludlow. The motorcycle of Da Silva was found in Milford by Chief J. J. Maloney, who cannot explain how it could be driven here and discarded.

THREE BURNED TO DEATH IN AUTO CRASH

by American reporters proved staggering.

DEAD GIRL A DIVORCEE.

The dead girl was a mother. A three-year-old daughter survives. She was married to a New York man, the marriage later annulled. Her parents, with whom she lived, are Peter and Jessie Schofield.

Finley, who was driving the machine, a Buick touring model, was the son of S. E. Finley. The father owned the car.

Gorham was known as "Doc." He lived with his parents.

The truck which indirectly caused the fatal accident was owned by J. P. Kenny, of No. 8 Bell Court, Cambridge.

Hurdy had delivered a load of granite in Hyannis. He was returning when his clutch burned out at the scene of the accident, at 10:45. He parked the car as far off the road as he could, leaving it against a fence with its lights on.

Notified by an American reporter of the crash that ensued later he broke down and wept. Later he went to Hingham and surrendered to the police.

DIED AMONG WRECKAGE.

The exact spot where the crash occurred was on the state "white" road in Hingham near the stone quarry. The twisted mass of wreckage proves the force with which the touring car struck the big truck. A man's hand severed at the wrist was pitched up near the wreckage.

The incinerated remains of the three persons revealed the manner in which flames completed the fatality.

Even at the hour of the accident there were autos on the road. In fact two cars followed the "death" car. Occupants of these machines said they heard no outcry after the terrific pistol-like report of the collision.

There was no indication that the three persons had moved. Flames immediately licked about the wrecked machine so that occupants of the two cars following parked at a safe distance away lest the wrecked car's gas tank explode and spray them with burning fuel.

HELPLESS TO AID VICTIMS.

The noise of the crash brought other autoists.

Police were notified. Until the flames subsided all stood about facing the grim tragedy, helpless, and yet sure that whoever had occupied the burning machine were past human aid. It was a matter of conjecturing on how many lives had been snuffed out.

When the flames finally died down enough to allow their being choked off by sand and chemicals, police and autoists faced a gruesome task. The color of burnt flesh drove several away from the scene entirely. Carrying the bodies to the roadside revealed them burnt beyond recognition.

Here is the prologue to the accident:

The Schofield family have a camp at Mayflower Grove, Bryantville. The dead daughter, who, it is understood, worked as a stenographer for a Congress street firm, was a friend of young Finley. Thursday night Finley drove to the Schofield home in South Boston in his father's car. Accompanying him were Delahanty and Casey.

ACCEPTS FATAL RIDE.

Let's drive down to your dad's camp," suggested Finley.

It was agreeable to the girl as she wished to get dresses for herself and her mother which had been left at the camp. Kissing her mother "goodbye" she left, saying, "I'll be home early. Take care of the baby."

The next news Mrs. Schofield had of her daughter was when an American reporter brought news of her death.

At the camp Mr. Schofield, the girl's father, was feeling ill. Casey and Delahanty decided to stay overnight with him. Gorham, who was already there, accepted an invitation from Finley to ride back to town. He was in the rear seat, Finley and the girl in front when the car happened onto the disabled truck and death followed.

Flappers Protest Dress Curb in Snappy Rhyme

Somerset, Pa., Aug. 24.—This little city of Somerset has been somersaulted into a style class war.

The first clash occurred when the Parent-Teachers' Association formally indorsed the "old-fashioned" girl and took steps to petition the school board to adopt a uniform style of dress for all schoolgirls. The rules would bar silk hose, short skirts, bobbed hair and low-neck, sleeveless dresses.

The flapper contingent, hearing of the meeting, stormed it. Their verbal protest, delivered in rhyme, was as short and snappy as the dress and manner of the flapperette who delivered it:

"I can show my shoulders;
I can show my knees,
I'm a free-born American,
And can show what I please."

With that, the flappers exited, while the Parent-Teachers' session was turned into an indignation meeting.

Action on the dress question will be demanded of the school board, the parents and teachers decided.

GIRL FINDS BODY OF LYNN MAN IN WOODS

The dead body of Gustavus Sturnham, seventy years old, of No. 135 Sheridan street, Lynn, was discovered in the woods off Lynnfield street, near Keenan's Camp, by Alice Ayers of No. 5 Sanger road as she was proceeding to a nearby well for water. Medical Examiner Nathaniel P. Breed declared death due to natural causes. The aged man had gone to the woods with his son, Harry, and nephew, William Fletcher, to pick blueberries.

THREE RUM RAIDS IN CHARLESTOWN

The Boston police liquor squad, under the direction of Sergeant Daniel Hines, secured liquor in three raids in Charlestown. At Patrick Murray's, No. 143 Chelsea street, Charlestown, four and a half gallons of mixed liquors were seized. At the home of Daniel Swan, No. 47 Millen street, one gallon of mixed liquor was found, while at the store of Mrs. Mary Corgin, No. 133 Rutherford avenue the police seized five gallons of liquor.

HUB WOMAN'S STOCKINGS MAKE LONDON LOOK TWICE

London, Aug. 24 (C.N.S.).—The eccentric taste of a Boston woman today gave London social circles a thrill.

Mrs. W. Gardner of Boston startled the fashionable world by appearing at a prominent hotel wearing silk stockings patterned with horizontal streaks of pale color on a darker ground—resembling some of the fancy woolen stockings used on golf links.

Mrs. Virginia Simon of New York recently wore black silk stockings with a multicolored dragon stretching from the instep to the knee on each stocking.

A number of others have begun wearing stockings matching their shoes of lizard or snake skin, the curious markings and gradations of color being exactly reproduced.

STRIKE TIES UP CORK CITY; COAL FAMINE THREATENED

Cork, Aug. 24 (I.N.S.).—Trade was paralyzed here today as a result of a general strike. Thousands are idle. The poorer districts are hard pressed as there is only a small supply of coal on hand. The water supply is threatened.

BRIDE ATTACKED BY 7 MEN IN HULL CAMP

of a soldier at Camp Devens.

The young bride declares that she was attacked by seven young men in a house at Bayside, Hull, and after being severely beaten, was turned out into the street.

Mrs. Emerson's mother, with whom she lives on Shawmut avenue, today told the story of Dorothy's adventure. Dorothy is at Camp Devens with a sister, resting after the trying ordeal.

TAKES AUTO JOY RIDE.

"My daughter had been up to Camp Devens visiting her husband," said Dorothy's mother. "She came home late in the evening. When she left the North station she was hailed by two young men in an automobile.

Foolishly she accepted the offer of a ride home with them. After riding a few minutes one of them suggested that he get his girl and they all go for a joy ride. Dorothy again foolishly agreed.

"They turned toward Nantasket and told Dorothy that the girl they wanted lived there. It was midnight when they reached Bayside. They drove up to a house and asked Dorothy to get out and come into the house to meet the girl. When she stepped inside the door she saw seven young men gathered there.

"She gave a frightened glance about the place, looked for the girl. Just then one of the men grabbed her, and tried to drag her into an adjoining room.

ATTACKED BY YOUTHS.

"Dorothy began to fight and scream. Then other men joined in and they started hitting Dorothy on the chest. They pounded her terribly, but she fought back and screamed at the top of her voice. One of the men finally hit her on the jaw, but she did not fall.

"At this point some of the men became frightened and suggested they put her out. They opened the door and gave her her bag and she went out into the street, screaming for help. She met two young men on the street and they took her to the police station. There she remained over night.

"I have always told Dorothy not to get into autos with strange men. She is a good girl. She meant nothing wrong when she entered that machine. The report that she was drinking at the house with the young men before they beat her is false.

Hull police are investigating the story.

Flee from Flames

GOLDIE EDESKA (At top) ELAINE HARBLETT

Occupants of No. 11 Wales street, Dorchester, were forced to flee to the street for safety when a blaze destroyed the two-story wooden building. Firemen succeeded in confining the blaze to the wooden structure, after damage estimated at $10,000 had been done. The building is owned by Samuel Bowers. Goldie Edeska and her chum, Elaine Harblatt, are two of the children who escaped from the blazing building.

$1,000 RANSOM FOR KIDNAPED BABY SOUGHT

New York, Aug. 24.—Peter McKenzie, father of three-months-old Lillian McKenzie, who was kidnaped from a perambulator last Saturday, received two letters at his home, No. 248 West Twelfth street, demanding $1,000 ransom for the return of the child.

One of the letters bore a Brooklyn postmark and was written in pencil in a masculine hand.

That letter declared Lillian was stolen "just for the dirty tricks you did to me in the past year." The second letter, which was mailed in Rutherford, N. J., was written with purple ink, in a large flowing hand, by a man who signed himself "K. K. K."

POLICE GIVEN LETTERS.

McKenzie immediately turned the letters over to Captain William Funston, who is in charge of the 165 detectives searching for the child. Funston said he believed the Rutherford letter was the work of a weak-minded man, but appeared to take the Brooklyn letter more seriously.

McKenzie said that the Brooklyn letter was the first received by him. He said that the writer had informed him Lillian was still alive and that she was being fed by him in accordance with the special diet which had been prescribed for the child by the family physician and which was published in the newspapers. He added the letter did not disclose any instructions regarding the manner in which the ransom demanded was to be paid, but stated that the writer would outline a scheme for the payment of the $1,000 in a letter which would be mailed within a few days.

INSANE MAN'S WORK.

"The letter from Rutherford appeared to be the work of an insane man," McKenzie continued. "Under the 'K. K. K.' in black ink, the letter said that the $1,000 must be placed in a smokestack at the entrances of the Rutherford Gas Company. It also said the money was to be placed in a handkerchief and that if I did not comply with the demand, Lillian would be killed between 2 and 4 o'clock next Saturday."

"I believe," Captain Funston said, "that if the men of this part of the country, and particularly mothers, would inject themselves into this hunt and make inquiries about children of Lillian's age in their respective communities we would make headway in recovering the child before it is too late."

YOUTH SHOT BY RIFLE KNOCKED TO FLOOR

Eric F. Lamb, 21, a student at Amherst College, was taken from his home, 33 Mossfield road, Wabash, to the Newton Hospital suffering from a rifle bullet wound in the abdomen. His condition is serious.

The young man's father, William F. Lamb, told the police that his son tossed a bundle of clothing on the floor and the bundle hit a rifle which was standing in a corner, knocking it over and discharging it.

$15,000 FIRE LOSS IN CAMBRIDGE

Fire of unknown origin caused $15,000 damage in the store of the Central Furniture Company, on the first floor of the Salvation Army Building, No. 400 Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge, early today. The alarm was given by a passer-by. The flame was confined to the first floor of the building.

WARD DEFENCE UPSET BY GRAND JURY WITNESS

New York, Aug. 24.—Grand jury testimony which supported the State's contention that Clarence M. Peters did not arrive in New York until May 15, 1922, the day before he was shot to death by Walter S. Ward, and which contradicted the contention of the defense that for weeks Peters had been in New York trying to blackmail Ward, was made public in another instalment of the minutes.

Walter S. Ward

The record revealed that several months ago Palmer F. Tubbs, associated with Ward on the New Rochelle police commission and for twenty-five months his confidential assistant in the offices of the Ward Baking Company, was summarily dismissed by Ward.

Tubbs declared in his testimony that "they" indicated things were going on which "they" desired to keep from him. He described Ward as "cold blooded, close-mouthed and a hard man to work for, and the best shot in the New Rochelle police department."

Tubbs described frequent visits to Ward's office of two men, one called "Rose," with whom he said Ward appeared to be on friendly terms. According to a statement by Ward concerning the shooting, two men known to him as "Jack" and "Rose" were involved with Peters in a blackmail plot against him.

Another witness whose testimony was made public was Earl N. Hardy of Haverhill, Mass., an uncle of the slain man. He said Peters never appeared to have much money, even after the time when the blackmail was said by Ward to have been levied.

"I don't think he had a mind capable of doing the things reported," he said. "For instance, the black mail plot; he didn't have head enough to do that."

was charged, was entered into for money.

Gettigan, who was placed on trial twice, the first jury having disagreed, was convicted of manslaughter by the second jury. On December 22, last he was sentenced to twelve to fifteen years in State Prison by Judge Dubuque. Sentence was stayed to enable Gettigan to go to the Supreme Court on exceptions which his counsel took.

The Revere grocer was first tried for first degree murder, it being charged that he administered arsenic to his aunt to get control of her money. The prosecution introduced evidence at both trials to show Gettigan plotted, as well, the death of his uncle, Clinton Richards, proprietor of a Revere shooting gallery.

Gettigan contended he had no opportunity to give his aunt poison, and produced evidence that he had offered his blood for transfusion to save her life.

LAWRENCE MAN IS FOUND ASPHYXIATED

Lawrence, Aug. 24.—Peter Johnson, 61 years old, of No. 34 Oxford street, barber shop proprietor, found unconscious in his room by a fellow lodger, died at the hospital from the effects of inhaling illuminating gas. Investigation showed it accidental.

Why Irvin Cobb Dislikes New York

Irvin Cobb—that inimitable humorist—says New York is terrible. It has no civic pride, says he, and many more things that will make the ears of New Yorkers burn and cause all outsiders to chuckle.

MONSIEUR POINCARE is frank and does not leave you in suspense about our loans to France.

Those loans will be paid when Germany pays to France enough to make good all French losses in war, plus enough to pay what France owes to England and the United States.

IN OTHER WORDS: France, after collecting all her losses, and the amount of her debt to England, will pay us, if she gets from Germany the money to do it.

That makes clear that the French peasant will never be taxed to pay what France borrowed from us. It also makes clear that the French debt will never be paid. So much for that. It will be a useful lesson in future lendings to save democracy.

FRANCE ANNOUNCED that she WILL NOT submit the question of her rights in the Ruhr, or any question of reparations to the World Court, or any commission, or anything else, except the will of France.

A World Court would be convenient for tying up the United States in European troubles and responsibilities, but France does not intend to submit to it. It's a good trap, but not for Frenchmen.

WHY SHOULD THIS country be caught in it?

It does not seem likely that President Coolidge will advise this nation to travel 3,000 miles to join a court that is already repudiated by one of the two most important of its creators.

STEINMETZ, WHOSE demonstrated genius among electricians compels attention, says men will soon work only four hours a day, and "five months' vacation out of every twelve" is the program that he sees ahead of human beings.

THERE IS NO DOUBT that the work done by the world now, on the sight or twelve-hour day basis, will be done easily in a four-hour day, with machinery fully developed.

No doubt whatever that in future human beings will be able to feed, clothe and lodge themselves, about all they accomplish now, by working four hours a day, or even less.

REGARDLESS OF machinery, however, men will not be satisfied to work four hours a day. They will want frequent change in their occupation, freedom from monotony. They will demand freedom from the job that keeps them hammering on the same piece of automobile machinery, turning the same screws, fastening the same part onto a pair of shoes, or making only buttonholes.

Men will want freedom from monotony, but they will never want freedom from work.

A RACE WORTH WHILE will finish with its chores, the mere earning of a living in four hours or less and probably very much less, when automatic machinery does all the heavy work.

But a race able to accomplish such things will work other hours, more, more hours than now, developing this earth, increasing knowledge, draining marshes, irrigating deserts, developing and applying scientific possibilities.

MAN WASN'T PUT HERE merely to put clothes on his body, food in his stomach, then sleep and enjoy a long vacation.

He is the earth's GARDENER, the agent here of the Power that rules all the suns and the planets. There will be plenty for men to do, twelve and sixteen hours a day, after they solve their little problem of getting enough to eat and enough to wear.

The new work will be different, however, as it will be attractive, instead of being what it is now, for the great majority, dull slavery.

IT WILL INTEREST American readers, especially workmen, afraid of European competition, to know that Japanese land owners and Japanese laborers now complain bitterly of American competition in the production of rice.

California makes a specialty of the "big" rice, preferred in Asia, and knows how to produce it, with machinery, capital and intelligent labor, at a lower cost than cheap Japanese labor can produce it.

MOTHER FEARS GIRL LURED BY BROADWAY

The lure of Broadway and New York musical shows is believed to have been responsible for the disappearance of seventeen-year-old Grace E. Meade, for whom Lynn police were seeking today.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Nellie G. Meade, of No. 30 George street, Lynn, told police her daughter left home Monday without announcing her going. Yesterday she returned during her mother's absence, helped herself to a kimona, silk underwear and a suitcase, and again disappeared, this time leaving a note. It said she was going to New York and told Mrs. Meade not to look for her.

The mother suspects a girl, whose first name is Grace, who lived in Washington street, Lynn, lodging house, with having induced her daughter to go to New York to join a show. The police searched lodging houses without success.

10 EVERETT BOYS TO BECOME PRIESTS

A record unique in the history of the Catholic archdiocese of Boston, will be established next month in the city of Everett when 10 boys from the parish of the Immaculate Conception in that city will leave to enter the Josephine Order at Epiphany College, Baltimore, Md.

All the boys were graduates of the Everett grammar schools and several of them have been altar boys in their parish church.

NANTASKET HOTEL PROPRIETOR DEAD

George E. Stearns of Hillsboro, prominent hotel man, died of complications in his hotel suite. He was attended by Dr. Walter Sturgis. Stearns leaves his wife and a son, Dr. Warren Stearns. He has been the proprietor of the Nantasket Hotel for more than 11 years. He formerly owned the Buckminster Hotel, Boston.

JOHNSON'S DEFI OPENS BIG FIGHT

Senator Accuses Opponents of Stealing Political Letter to Friend

Washington, Aug. 23 (U.S.)—Senator Hiram Johnson opened fire today on his political enemies in California, who have organized a fight to keep him from getting the indorsement of his State for the Republican Presidential nomination in 1924.

A statement issued by the Senator denounced those who are in the fight against him as "an opposition without limitations or honor or decency."

This vigorous language was prompted by the publication in certain newspapers of excerpts from a confidential letter written by the Senator while in Europe last July to Charles K. McClatchy of Sacramento, in which the political situation in California was discussed with exceeding frankness.

ENEMIES PLAYED.

The statements contained in the letter itself the Senator asserted, are unimportant and constitute nothing to which neither he nor anyone else might take objection. The manner in which the letter was obtained, however, and the use made of it by his enemies were played by the Senator in characteristic fashion.

Senator Johnson's statement is an echo of the 1920 fight made against him in California by the Hoover faction. Of far greater significance, however, is the fact that it constitutes the first declaration of what may be expected in the State if the Senator concludes to go after the nomination in 1924.

HOOVER FACTION'S PLAN.

The Hoover faction has been at work in California for an "uninstructed" delegation, which, in plain language, means a declaration unfriendly to the Senator, and which can be used over to the Old Guard whenever a favorable opportunity arises.

Senator Johnson's statement says in part:

"Last May, while I was in Europe, I wrote a letter to my friend Charles K. McClatchy, of Sacramento, an intimate personal letter. Mr. McClatchy sent excerpts and not copies only, of the letter in a letter of his own to Albert E. Boynton, of San Francisco, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee of California.

"The notorious Andy Lawrence of unsavory reputation in Chicago, and more unsavory reputation in San Francisco, is publishing a sheet in San Francisco called the Journal. Lawrence is the chief promoter in Northern California of Herbert Hoover. Lawrence surreptitiously obtained letters from the files and private office of Mr. Boynton, and among these found the letter of McClatchy to Boynton with the excerpts from my letter.

"There are some things that must not be done even in politics, and that decent men and women cannot condone. One of these is burglarizing opponents' rooms or stealing his private property or private correspondence, or receiving things thus appropriated. This is exactly what was done in this particular instance.

"GRAND LARCENY."

"Fortunately, aside from the little intimacies which occur in the correspondence of every man and woman, there is nothing in any correspondence of mine that cannot be revealed or published.

"I do object, however, to grand larceny or petit thieving in politics or business.

"It made me glad that I wrote the letter, may be taken by the opposition, well committed in this instance as an invitation to a contest in California."

BOMBERS CAPTURED!

WHY AVIATION IS POPULAR

More than one dainty Virginian nims will have her nose considerably out of joint when the army bombers return to Langley Field and tell all about the wonderfully pretty girls up around Boston, especially East Boston. Above are the Misses Helen Greene, Helen Lynch and Rose Gardner perched on one of Uncle Sam's big bombing planes, which they have temporarily captured. The planes, on route to Langley Field from Bangor, touched at East Boston's new airport. Now we all know why the gallant U. S. aviators are all so anxious to "come down" on East Boston. The planes, which left Langley Field last Monday, stopped for the night at Mitchel Field and resumed their journey home today.

GOLD LOST BY LINER IN WAR

Divers Using Divining Spear at Work Three Years in 90 Feet of Water

London, Aug. 24 (A.P.)—All except a few bars of the thirty million dollars worth of gold bullion which dropped to the ocean bed when a German submarine sank the Laurentic off Donegal, Ireland, has been recovered by divers who, since 1918, have been carrying on their labors ninety feet below the surface of the sea.

Nine thirty bars remaining in the wreck it is expected, will be brought up within a fortnight.

In addition to the gold, which was consigned to American bankers, the Laurentic was laden with almost five million dollars in silver specie, mostly in five-shilling pieces, all of which has been salvaged.

The men have been using a divining spear with a dial attachment that shows whether the spearpoint is touching gold or a base metal such as iron.

GIRL SAYS SHE STOLE TO AID STEPMOTHER

Haverhill, Mass., Aug. 24.—Charlotte Adams, fourteen years old, a Bradford school girl, is under arrest charged with entering the home of George W. Bryant here and stealing the sum of money over a period of two weeks.

The girl's stepmother, Mrs. Rose S. Adams, was arrested on a charge of receiving money which the girl confessed having stolen.

According to Deputy Sheriff Abbott, Charlotte confessed stealing $70 from the Bryant home "because my mother needed money." She told Abbott she had given all the stolen money to her stepmother.

The girl was sentenced to the State Industrial School at Hallowell by Judge Pike, when she pleaded guilty. Her stepmother was held in $500 bail for the September term of the Superior Court in Portland.

A month ago Charlotte caused excitement in Cumberland and Oxford counties when she disappeared and Governor Fraser's armed posses searched for the missing couple for three days, and finally brought them home.

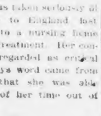
KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN DIES IN ENGLAND

Harrow, England, Aug. 24 (A.P.)—Kate Douglas Wiggin, the American author is dead here.

The novelist was taken seriously ill on her voyage to England last June and went to a nursing home in Liverpool for treatment. Her condition was not regarded as critical and in a few days word came from the institution that she was able to spend much of her time out of doors.

Kate Douglas Wiggin often called the "prima donna of literature," was one of the most prominent women engaged in literary and philanthropic work in the United States.

In 1878 Mrs. Wiggin, then Kate Douglas Smith, left her home in Maine and journeyed to California to study kindergarten methods. She taught for a year in Santa Barbara College, and then organized the Silver Street Kindergarten in San Francisco, the first free school of the kind west of the Rocky Mountains.



Kate Douglas Wiggin

After her marriage in 1880 to Samuel Bradley Wiggin, a lawyer of San Francisco, Mrs. Wiggin turned her attention to literature, using the rich material she had gathered in her kindergarten work to weave into stories of greater influence.

Her first story, called "Half a Dozen Housekeepers," had appeared in 1878. It was several years later that "The Story of Patsy," and "The Bird's Christmas Carol," were published and met with unexpected success.

In 1885, Mr. and Mrs. Wiggin removed to New York, where she published "A Summer in a Canyon," "Timothy's Quest," and "A Cathedral Courtship," which were translated into several foreign languages.

In addition to her literary ability, both prose and verse, Mrs. Wiggin was an accomplished musician.

Although born in Philadelphia in 1857, the childhood of Mrs. Wiggin was spent in Hollis, Maine, where her father, a lawyer, removed shortly after her birth. She was educated in Abbott Academy, Andover, Mass.

Mrs. Wiggin's second husband was George Christopher Riggs, whom she married in 1895, six years after the death of Samuel Wiggin.

PREMIER KATO OF JAPAN IS DEAD

Tokio, Aug. 24.

Baron Kato, Premier of Japan, died here. He was making Japanese delegate to the disarmament conference at Washington, D. C., in 1921.

Baron Kato

Physicians attending the patient announced at midnight that his condition had take a turn for the worse. Before morning he began to show signs of general exhaustion, his pulse became extremely weak and the doctors said their patient's heart was causing them the greatest anxiety.

In a statement following his appointment, Premier Kato said:

"Japan's foreign policy, from which this cabinet will not depart, is to co-operate with the powers in the spirit as well as the letter of the Covenant of the League of Nations and the treaties and resolutions signed at Washington with the view that concord and friendship may develop among the nations, and that reductions of armaments may steadily progress to relieve the difficulties and burdens of mankind."

THROWS MATCH ON FLOOR; FLEES FIRE

Carelessness in throwing a lighted match on the floor nearly caused a man to lose his life and damaged a three-story wooden dwelling to the extent of $200.

John O'Donnell of No. 48 B street, South Boston, lit a cigarette and then threw the still flaming match to the floor. A short time later he saw smoke coming under the door. Upon opening it a volume of smoke and flames swept his face. Tying his handkerchief about his head, he fought his way to the street.

MUSSOLINI URGES FIUME PACT

Rome, Aug. 24 (AP)—Impatient over delay in settling the status of Fiume, Premier Mussolini has asked the Joint Commission to reach a decision before September 1.

The newspapers this morning reported an ultimatum had been sent to Jugoslavia. A semi-official communique, however, stated the word "ultimatum" was unwarranted and added:

"It was only an invitation addressed by Premier Mussolini to the mixed Italo-Jugoslav Commission dealing with the Fiume question to conclude its work within the present month."

The newspapers say Mussolini proposed Fiume be governed by a mixed Italo-Jugoslav Commission and that this commission entrust the Italian government with the political administration and management of Fiume.

KLAN THREATENS JACK JOHNSON

Wheeling, Va., Aug. 24.—The Ku Klux Klan in a meeting held at Brilliant decided to "run Jack Johnson into the river" if he comes to Mingo to box in the main bout of the Mingo Athletic Club on Labor Day.

Mingo is but a short distance from Steubenville, Ohio, where the recent anti-Klan riots occurred. The district is a hot bed of Klanism, and threats following the meeting were openly made by several Klansmen.

Authorities at Mingo have quietly been making preparations to protect the negro on his arrival in Mingo.

HARVARD MEDICS TO HAVE DORMITORY

Harvard Medical School students are to have a dormitory of their own. Alumni have formed a Harvard Medical School Dormitory Fund committee of 41 members and are organizing a campaign to be launched early next month to raise $1,000,000.

The site agreed upon is the northwestern corner of the junction of Pasteur and Longwood avenues at the point where the southern extremity of Pasteur avenue opens out to form a semi-circle.

COPE ARRIVES FOR LLOYD GEORGE TRIP

New York, Aug. 24.—Sir Alfred Cope, who before the Irish settlement was one of the chief British officials in Dublin and who is the sole head of the National Liberal organization, arrived on the Mauretania today to make arrangements for former Premier Lloyd George's forthcoming trip to Canada and the United States.

CIVIL WAR OVER JAPS FEARED BY McDOUGALL

Williamstown, Aug. 24 (C.N.S.).—That there is the possibility of a civil war between the East and the West in the United States if the Japanese are permitted to overrun the West was one of the statements made by Prof. William McDougall of Harvard University, speaking on "race as a factor in politics" at the Institute of Politics.

Prof. McDougall insisted upon the fundamental right of every nation to say whom it will admit within its borders, and suggested a complete solution of the Japanese question by revision of the immigration laws so the census of 1890 would be used to determine the quotas of immigrant groups rather than the census of 1910.

TO CUT IMMIGRATION.

Since there were only 10,000 Japanese in the United States in 1890, Professor McDougall pointed out, the Japanese problem would thus be solved once and for all. In offering this suggestion Professor McDougall made it clear he was not opposed to the exclusion of Japanese and other Orientals from the United States on the grounds of inferiority, but rather on the ground of the incompatibility of races.

Dr. Adam Shortt, of Ottawa, declared that the economic superiority of Japanese, if allowed to migrate on the Pacific Coast, would, before very long, drive out the Occidental life on the Atlantic.

BIRKENHEAD ARRIVES.

Viscount Birkenhead, former Lord High Commissioner of England who will speak tonight on "some problems left by the Great War," at the Institute of Politics, Williamstown, Mass., arrived in New York today. The Viscount's address has aroused unusual interest as he is known to have little confidence in the League of Nations so long as the United States is not a member.

The Viscount is accompanied by his daughter, Lady Eleanor Smith, and by Commander Leeper Leeper Lampson, M. P., for whom the Russian "Reds" offered a huge reward, "dead or alive," after Russia's defection in the World War.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

A good plan to prevent rugs from curling up is to attach little round lead buttons, such as tailors use, to the lower edge of the corners of coats, at each corner, underneath. They should be padded first to prevent them from scratching the floors.

BERNARD, CARR, IN NEW FILM COMING HERE

THE FIRST NATIONAL'S new production of "Potash and Perlmutter" is scheduled for an early showing in Boston, probably within the next month, in view of an announcement of the parties it has been given exclusive rights in several theaters, including The Tremont. The cast is headed by Barney Bernard and Alexander Carr, original stars of the stage play, and many members of the original cast will be seen in the film version. The picture story is an adaptation of the first Potash and Perlmutter play.

PRISCILLA BONNER has been Ben Turpin's screen sweetheart for many moons and though the angle-eyed Ben is a simple lover of modest tastes Miss Bonner seems to get on very well in his company. The two are now appearing in Pathe comedies, in which Mr. Turpin is seen in the guise of a gentleman of a grotesque Roman. Miss Bonner, however, keeps her hands in hand and makes up to her own good looks what is missing in that respect in her humorous screen companion.

GRACE CARLYLE has missed her vacation. Focusing seventy years of experience in filmdom work on the West Coast she packed her vanity case and started for New York and a nice rest. Did she get it? She did not. Immediately upon her arrival she was offered the leading role in Oscar Apfel's "Manslaughter" and, like a true artist, she forgot all about the vacation and went right to work.

Polly Cabot a Tennis Star, Says Betty Alden

Miss Polly Cabot, younger daughter of the Thomas Handasyd Cabots.

International News Reel Photo

By BETTY ALDEN.

ONE of the foremost figures to keep things humming in the Summer colony at Dublin, N. H., is young Polly Cabot. Last Winter Polly "cut a good deal of ice" by doing amazing grapevines, figure eights and what not at several skating carnivals here in Boston. And the skating rink wasn't the only place where she showed proficiency, for she and her partner won first prizes at a few dancing exhibitions held at charity functions.

The scene of activity for her is shifted now to Dublin, where she holds sway to a good extent on the tennis courts. Fluffy-haired Pauline takes after her agile sister in this respect, for Mrs. Cabot is a frequent participant a many of the tennis matches held at Longwood. Last Summer Elizabeth Cabot's wedding to Henry Hall, Jr., of New York, drew a large Boston contingent to the Cabot country home.

AMONG those who succumbed to the wanderlust urge are Mrs. Jonathan Brown, Jr., of "Red Top Farm," Hamilton, and Miss Gretchen Brown, who have been enjoying the Summer in Europe and are due to turn their steps homeward the end of this month. For the past few weeks they have been in Switzerland visiting some friends.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM ROSCOE THAYER are again numbered among the Manchester Cove Summer folk. Owing to a recent nervous breakdown of Mr. Thayer's the charming home of Mrs. Robert deWolfe Sampson, where the Thayers are staying, is unusually quiet this Summer. Mrs. Sampson is a sister of Mrs. William Thayer.

ABOUT the last of August will see "Princemere," the beautiful Beverly Farms-Wenham estate of the Frederick Henry Princess, deserted by its owners, who are planning to call for their annual sojourn in Pau, France. Mr. Prince is an ardent and enthusiastic huntsman and is eager to see his hounds which were left in Pau all this last year at the Prince estate, known as "Villa Ste. Helene." One of the chief attractions at "Princemere" is the polo field, considered one of the finest in the country.

BRIGHTON K. C. TO HOLD FIELD DAY

Brighton Council, K. of C., will hold its annual field day and athletic meet tomorrow afternoon and evening at Rogers Park, Lake and Foster streets, Brighton.

The main event is the ball game between the Shamrocks, who recently won the district championship, and the Council team. The relay race between Brighton and Allston Councils also is expected to prove a thriller.

Fear often affects one more than bodily injury, as the proverb from Heywood's collection affirms.

"The finest edge is made with a blunt wheelstone."

The effect and cause often seem to have no connection whatsoever, like the sharp edge and the dull stone. The line is from "Epithets" (1550) by Lyly.

CORRECT MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have been going about for a few weeks with a young lady. We have made arrangements for a beach party at a public beach, just the two of us.

What is the proper way of paying her admission, as there are two ticket booths? Shall I give her the money or shall I purchase the tickets? Also ought I give her the correct change or thereabouts, or should I give her a bill? Would she become offended at the former? IGNORANT.

IF it is convenient and easy for you to go to the booth, it is better for you to purchase the tickets for the young lady. If the arrangements for purchasing tickets make this not agreeable, you might give the young lady a bill. This makes it easier for both attendants—that she may have to pay for. I hope that she won't be a "gold digger" with the change!

BANDMASTER BANS NATIONAL ANTHEM

New York, Aug. 24—Because he considers the "Star Spangled Banner" gloomy, and because it recalls too vividly the tragic scenes of warfare, Harry Barnhart, conductor of the Summer "community sings" in Central Park, refused to begin his concerts with the national song.

Barnhart immediately was discharged by Park Commissioner Gallatin, and the Seventy-First Band was called upon to take the place of Barnhart's musical organization.

There was a demonstration when Mr. Gallatin announced the dismissal of Barnhart, and its cause, before the audience gathered in the park. Several women protested audibly. Gallatin ordered the band to strike up the "Star Spangled Banner" and urged the audience to sing with the band.

Barnhart, who is an American, has conducted the band concerts at Central Park for eight years. During the war the national anthem always had a place on his program, but recently it was played only occasionally.

FROST CAUSES HEAVY LOSS TO CROPS

Frost throughout New England caused thousands of dollars' loss in produce and crops. The most severe loss suffered was in New Hampshire.

Produce gardens in the vicinity of Salem, N. H., were badly frost-bitten when the mercury dropped to 30 degrees during the early morning hours. Whitefield, N. H., reported heavy frost.

Boston reported 37 degrees, 5 degrees below freezing, accompanied by heavy frost. Bryantville, Wareham, Carver, Harwich, Lawrence and Methuen all reported temperatures below freezing, accompanied by frost.

Despite the frost, the damage to the cranberry crop, said to be very susceptible to the cold, was said by the Cape Cod Cranberry Company to be slight.

Throughout New England the night was said to be the coldest August night on record. Frost was general in the low lands.

Crops were not the only thing affected by the cold. Beach resorts felt a decided slump in business. Many Greater Boston merchants reported heavy sales of topcoats and woolen coats.

Reports from the West and Middle West are to the effect that warmer weather is on the way.

DRY LAW SAVES 500,000 LIVES, SAYS WHEELER

Copenhagen, Aug. 24 (A.P.)—Wayne B. Wheeler, chief counsel of the Anti-Saloon League and principal American delegate to the International Congress Against Alcohol, sharply criticized today the review given Tuesday by Professor Warming of the University of Copenhagen of the impressions adverse to absolute prohibition received during a four-months' visit to the United States.

"America," said Mr. Wheeler, "has tried all systems—licenses, higher taxation, restriction, local option, government control, and all those methods failed. Then came prohibition, which was an immediate success. The first three years' experience shows that prohibition, efficiently carried through, only partly, has been a great blessing.

"The official statistics show the number of crimes was reduced in Chicago, New York and Albany respectively 25, 19 and 42 per cent., while at least 500,000 human lives have been saved in the last three years. In the last five years before prohibition American homes were built, to the tune of $40,000,000, while since prohibition the figures are $324,000,000, or 8,647 new homes every month.

"This," added Mr. Wheeler, "is my experience, and these are my impressions. I have lived all my life in America and Professor Warming was there only four months."

NIGHT FLIGHTS ASSURED BY BIG HOP

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 24.—Commencing on the final results of the airmail experiments now being conducted with coast-to-coast relay flying, Second Assistant Postmaster General Paul Henderson announced that with the termination of the test flights, the government will have accomplished what it set out to do—to prove that aircraft can be operated at night with a certain degree of regularity, with a very definite degree on the course flown, and with a definite degree of safety.

Colonel Henderson stated that when the four round trip test flights from coast to coast which will be completed at San Francisco and at New York Saturday evening, eight complete flights will have been made across the continent, a combined distance of approximately 24,000 miles, 8,000 of which will have been flown over a night air way, which has been lighted for the purpose.

With the termination of the coast-to-coast flights Saturday evening the department will check up the data collected, first as to performances and second, as to the lights and other ground equipment and within two weeks a conference will be held the result of which it is hoped, will result definitely in determining the final decision on the experiments, as they may affect the air mail service with regard to night flying.

1 DEAD, 3 HURT, IN PROVIDENCE CRASH

Providence, Aug. 24.—Frank Silva, of New Bedford, is dead as the result of an automobile accident on Waterman avenue, East Providence, in which a machine driven by him overturned after striking the rear of a heavy truck.

Sergeant Lawrence Murphy of the New Bedford police department, John Best of No. 11 Acushnet avenue, New Bedford, and Mrs. Lottie Lavinson of Providence are now in the Rhode Island Hospital.

Chautauqua, N. Y. (AP.)—George W. Wickersham, Attorney-General in the Roosevelt administration, today advocated America's entry into the League of Nations before the Conference on International Relations from the Christian Viewpoint under the auspices of the Federal Council of Churches.

ECLIPSE OF SUN IN BOSTON ON SEPT. 10

Astronomers are preparing for an eclipse of the sun which is to take place Monday, Sept. 10, with nearly half of the sun's disk darkened in Boston at time of greatest obscuration. The eclipse will begin, as seen in Boston, at 4:14 P. M., Sept. 10. At 5:57, just fifty-three minutes later, approximately one-half of the sun will be darkened by the intervening moon. This will be the moment of greatest obscuration. At 6:22 P. M. the obscuration will terminate.

BOY BITTEN 14 TIMES BY RAT, FAINTS AND GOES TO HOSPITAL

Lawrence, Aug. 24.—Fowsey Maloof, 14 years old of No. 143 Valley street, is in the Lawrence Hospital with his left leg bandaged from ankle to knee. Beneath those bandages are 14 papier puncturings made by a huge rat which Fowsey and a boy companion battled with a Lawrence alley ten minutes before they killed it.

The boys were passing through an alley off Franklin street when they saw a huge rat dart out of a deserted house. It stopped in a bold crouch and eyed the boys. They poked a stick at it thinking the rat would slip away. Instead it turned and leaping on the Fowsey boy fastened its teeth in his left leg.

While he screamed his companion beat at the rodent. Every time it was knocked to the ground it leapt back at Fowsey's leg and tore at his flesh. It was finally killed but not until the bitten boy had fainted. Police rushed him to the hospital.

BOY, GIRL WEIGHING 388 LBS. GONE, MAY BE ELOPERS

Lawrence, Aug. 24.—Three hundred and eighty pounds of boy and girl are sought by the police here in what is believed to be an elopement.

Rosalie Cuncha, sixteen years old and 180 pounds heavy, No. 53 Valley street, is missing. Her sweetheart, Joseph Cuncha, weighing 200 pounds, of the same address, is also missing. The girl is 5 feet 8 inches tall; the boy 6 feet 10 inches.

Police are conducting a search for the couple at the request of Mrs. Eva Cuncha, the girl's mother. Although both the boy and the girl have the same name, they are not related.

Reward for Lost Dog

A reward has been offered by Captain Clinton F. Bewley of the West Roxbury police station for the return of his English setter, Watch, which has been missing for several days.

RIVAL TO GO ON TRIP WITH MISS BLACK

MILDRED SALISBURY

(Copyright, Atlantic Photo Service)

New Bedford's entry in the National Beauty Show at Atlantic City will accompany Miss Margaret L. Black, winner of the Boston American Most Charming Girl Contest to the tournament of beauty.

Miss Mildred Salisbury, chosen by New Bedford to compete against America's most beautiful girls in the National Beauty Show at Atlantic City, will travel to the New Jersey resort in company with Miss Margaret L. Black of Dorchester, winner of the Boston American's Most Charming Girl Contest.

Miss Black is a beautiful brunette, with gray blue eyes, raven hair, and a rose leaf complexion, while her rival and traveling companion, "Miss New Bedford" is of the semi-brunette type, with hazel eyes and medium brown hair.

American Contestants to Meet Miss Black

Miss Margaret L. Black, of Dorchester, who was picked from a field of more than 500 entrants as the Most Charming girl in Greater Boston will interrupt her vacation visit at Hampton Beach long enough to return to Boston for a farewell reception planned by her friends.

One of the features of the reception, which will be held in Crescent Gardens Ballroom, Revere Beach, will be an entertainment directed by Miss Helen M. Roche, talented organist of St. Augustine's Church, South Boston. Miss Roche has arranged an interesting program. One of the feature numbers will be contributed by "Baby" Josephine Leonard, the child prodigy and her young brother "Jimmy," whose pleasing voice has attracted wide attention. Another sweet voiced singer who will entertain is Herbert Arvison.

Dancing to the regular 12-piece Crescent Gardens Orchestra will be indulged in from 8 to 11:45 p. m. During the intermission the girls who competed in the Boston American's tournament will be presented to Miss Black. All the contestants have been invited by the committee to be present.

RUM-RUNNERS ALARMED BY PIRATE RAIDS

Yarmouth, N. S., Aug. 24.—Rum runners are getting nervous as a result of the increasing frequency of depredations by liquor pirates.

The schooner J. Scott Hankinson, which put in here Wednesday, after she had been boarded off the Massachusetts coast by pirates who seriously wounded her skipper and cook, was the fourth Canadian rum ship to suffer at the hands of modern Captain Kidds.

The first was the Eddie James, boarded off the American coast last Spring. Her cargo was spirited away and has not been seen since. The pirates took several thousand dollars in cash and a quantity of liquor.

The schooner Catherine was raided a few weeks later, but her captain saved his ready cash by a ruse, wrapping nearly $10,000 in a soiled towel, he tossed it into a corner where it lay unmolested while the pirates searched the ship and vainly threatened the skipper in an effort to make him disgorge his treasure. They finally departed taking a couple hundred cases of liquor.

The schooner Lewis H. Smith, according to stories told here, was robbed of more than $26,000 by pirates shortly before her arrival here two months ago.

MASTERPIECES SELL FOR HALF MILLION

London, Aug. 24.—The Reynolds masterpieces, "The Young Fortune Teller," and "The Countess Crosbee," which were owned by Lord Gleneonner, have been sold to Sir Joseph Duveen, instead of to Arthur Ruck, as reported. The price paid for the two pictures is believed to approximate a half million dollars.

FOUR NEAR DEATH IN HARBOR

Captain of Ferry by Quick Action Averts Sinking Rowboat

Two men and two girls were near death in the harbor off East Boston when a rowboat narrowly escaped being run down by the speed Lynn ferryboat Brewster, bound for Boston.

Only quick work on the part of the Brewster's captain, who stopped the ferryboat and ordered the engines reversed when the small craft hove into view prevented a tragedy. As it was, the Brewster barely missed hitting the rowboat.

Although the incident is believed to have been wholly accidental, ferry authorities have complained to the harbor police that their captains are constantly annoyed by small boats purposely crossing the path of the larger boats to impede their progress.

Some mischievous youths in these small boats, it is charged, in addition to annoying the navigators by crossing the path of the ferryboats, often accost the captain and the members of the crew with profanity, to the great discomfiture of the women and girl passengers.

The police have promised to aid the ferry authorities in putting an end to the dangerous pastime.

MINISTER TAKES BRIDE SECRETLY

Springfield, Aug. 24.—Relatives and friends of the Rev. Edward P. Berry, pastor of the Memorial Church, this city, have just received news of his secret wedding to Miss Alice G. Lord of Los Angeles, Cal.

The couple were married in New York State. The Rev. Mr. Berry met his bride-to-be at the Springfield Union Station after she had crossed the continent for the ceremony. The couple secured a waiver of the five-day law in Pittsfield, but failed to apply for a license at Springfield City Hall. They then went to New York State.

CHILD SETS OWN CLOTHES AFLAME

Lawrence, Aug. 24.—Evelyn Dion, four years old, child of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dion of No. 161 West street, is at the Lawrence General Hospital on the danger list suffering from burns she received in the kitchen of the Dion home. The child was playing with matches in the absence of her mother and her clothes caught fire. Neighbors rushed in to render assistance.

2 "FLAPPERS" GET 30 DAYS AS VAGRANTS

Leominster, Aug. 24.—Betty Bemonstenes, alias Mrs. Sadie Covell, and Florence St. Francis, alias Edith Coe, both nineteen years old, who said their homes were in Auburn, N. Y., were sentenced in District Court here to thirty days in the House of Correction for vagrancy.

The girls strolled through the city in knickers and white sweaters, smoking cigarettes.

MAYNARD TAX RATE $2 LOWER THIS YEAR

The Maynard board of assessors announced the tax rate for 1923 as $28 on each $1000 this being a drop of $2 over last year's rate which was the highest in the history of the town. Centrally located business property has been increased in valuation. The assessors found 675 automobiles registered in Maynard on April 1.

Stillman's New Love Snubs Flo

MRS. J. T. TALBERT

New York, Aug. 24—"I am not in the least interested in what Mrs. 'Flo' Leeds said," Mrs. Joseph Truitt Talbert stated today at the Ritz-Carlton. Mrs. Talbert, named by Mrs. Leeds as her successor in the affections of James A. Stillman, the former banker, returned on the Lloyd Sabaudo liner, Conte Rosso, from Naples.

Mrs. Talbert evidently endeavored to avoid publicity. Her name, by request, was not on the passenger list of the ship.

Mrs. Talbert, a pretty, petite blonde, looked somewhat wan, but she explained to the reporters that was due to a recent illness.

PAT SOMERSET AND BRIDE SUED FOR LOAN

New York, Aug. 24—The troubles of Pat Somerset and Edith Day, his bride, are not yet ended. They learned they had been sued in London for approximately $7,675. Mon Calvert, an English actor, filed the suit in the High Court, alleging he holds notes for the amount signed by both Somerset and Miss Day. The money was loaned and was to be paid in monthly installments of $100, with interest at 6 per cent. MOTHERS' PLEAS ARE IN VAIN

Lone Faucet at Dudley Pond Torn Out Because Some Fail to Pay Tax

Ninety odd campers at Wayland in the Dudley Pond section are without drinking water as the result of the action of the water commission of Cochituate, which has shut off their only source of supply—a lone faucet.

The faucet, located at the entrance to Sycamore road on the Cutts North Gate to the big camp grounds, was ripped out while weeping women with babes in arms pleaded in vain for a little time in which to obtain a small supply of water for themselves and children.

WOMAN'S PLEA IN VAIN.

"Please, mister, will you wait till I get a bucketful to last me through the day?" pleaded one woman.

"Rip it out," was the direction given by Commissioner Maynard P. Porter to a worker he had brought along to dismantle the little community's fountain.

James McKay, chairman of the water commission, explained that the faucet was set at the entrance to the road, which the campers have renamed Sahara Terrace, as an accommodation to a few of the 30 odd cottages in that section on the north side of the pond.

GREEDY CAMPERS BLAMED.

The pipe was laid there and the faucet attached on payment of regular water rates by a few of the campers. It was protected by a small wooden house locked with a padlock, each of the paying consumers having a key.

Greedy campers broke the lock time after time and helped themselves to the water without pay, according to Commissioner McKay. Consequently the commissioners, including Walter Smith, in addition to Messrs. McKay and Porter, voted to discontinue the supply.

William A. Hammond, one of the cottage owners, across with Mr. McKay that non-paying consumers abused the accommodation, but he wants drinking water for his wife and six months old child and he's going to the State Board of Health at once in search of relief.

SEVERAL PAID $2.

Mr. Hammond says he has paid his $2 for water and will act as spokesman for the others when he places his complaint before the State Health authorities.

Others who are listed as having paid the $2 water rate or $3 annual are Mrs. Jacob Westcott, Mrs. Nelly Hammond, with two small children in her home; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Daily, Mr. and Mrs. James Bennett, with a child one year of age; Mrs. J. Dunn, Mrs. Sadie McClean and Mrs. Thomas Foikin.

"I don't see why people should get water for nothing any more than they should get anything else for nothing," declared Commissioner McKay.

Mr. Hammond's reply is that the campers who take the water without right could be blocked if the commission properly guarded the faucet during week-ends when, he says, most of the pilfering is done.

BACK BAY WOMAN KILLED BY AUTO

Miss Catherine O'Connell, fifty years old, of No. 105 Massachusetts avenue, Back Bay, died at the City Hospital of injuries sustained when she was struck by an automobile at Hammond and Tremont streets, South End. Fred J. Lee, operator of the automobile, was arrested on a charge of manslaughter and released on $3,000 bail.

BABY STORM CENTRE OF LEGAL BATTLE

CHILD OF UNWED MOTHER

Mrs. Margaret Barnes, wife of the child's father, has renewed her fight for its possession following her failure to obtain it by habeas corpus proceedings in Salem Court. Lucy Phillips, the young mother, is contesting Mrs. Barnes' right.

LOVE NOTES OF SLAIN BRIDE DEATH CLEW

Colorado Springs, Col., Aug. 24—A crumpled pocket of five letters, said to contain evidence incriminating the unknown assailant who killed Mrs. Elsie Jorgensen Suttle, wife of H. H. Suttle, Jr., here, is believed to have been the cause of the attack, which ended in the death of the seventeen-year-old bride of a month, according to police.

A man called "Jack," police believe, is thought to have invaded the girl's room in an effort to secure the letters, which were found under the pillow of the bed on which her body was laying.

Mrs. Suttle was said to have been carrying on a clandestine correspondence with an unknown admirer. Police say a window box in the room in which she was killed is [illegible] used as a postoffice box.

Police are looking for a young Spaniard, whose first name is said to be Manolo, said to be a rejected suitor of the girl. According to Mrs. R. H. Suttle, Sr., her daughter-in-law arose about 8 o'clock yesterday morning and then returned to her room. Shortly afterward the man sought by the police appeared and asked to see Elsie, but the latter refused to see him.

At 9 o'clock Mrs. Suttle said she went to a store, and when she returned an hour later found the girl dead. She had been beaten over the head with a blunt weapon.

BERGDOLL PLOT FINANCED BY RICH YANKEE

Wurzburg, Germany, Aug. 24.—"If the Germans want to make a martyr of me, all right; I don't care, but it would be a mistake," declared Lieutenant C. H. Griffis, of Hamilton, Ohio, one of the members of the band that tried to kidnap Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, today.

The message was issued through a third party.

"If the Germans attempt anything like that," said Griffis, "it will alienate American sympathies away from Germany. That is what we want to do anyway."

No reporters are permitted to see Griffis or his companion, Victor Nielson, who also is in jail in Wurzburg.

Griffis emphasized that he had no part in the actual attempt at kidnaping. He smilingly admitted, however, that he "was part of the intelligence behind the attempt."

Griffis intimated that a well known influential man in the United States was the directing genius behind the attempt to seize Bergdoll "dead or alive." This man is said to have furnished the money. Griffis is said to have made the remark that this American was prepared "to back us up to the limit."

Trial of the prisoners probably will be held in two months. If the charge is attempted murder there will be a trial by jury. If the accusation is modified five judges will sit without a jury.

OPENS NEW FIGHT FOR BABY

Peabody Woman Pushes Her Claim for Child She Says Mother Gave to Her

By HAROLD R. HALL

The fight of Mrs. Margaret F. Barnes for the possession of her husband's illegitimate child is to be carried on.

Margaret Jolly

Undaunted by an adverse decision in her habeas corpus proceedings to obtain the child in Salem Court, Mrs. Barnes has filed a petition for guardianship which will be heard soon in the same court.

Margaret Jolly, agent for the State Board of Charities, cared for the baby during the hearing.

The child is today in the custody of the State, it being so ordered in a finding by Judge Dow. Its mother, Miss Lucy N. Phillips, former housekeeper for Mrs. Barnes' husband, had voluntarily given up the child in the court of the Commonwealth.

BOTH DETERMINED.

"I shall never give up my baby to Mrs. Barnes. I shall fight to keep that child as long as I have strength," Miss Phillips declared after the hearing.

"I shall never stop fighting for that baby girl. Miss Phillips gave me the child and then took her away. I shall fight to get the child as long as I live." This was the retort of Mrs. Margaret F. Barnes from her home in Peabody.

Seldom if ever has there been such an unusual and dramatic battle for the possession of an illegitimate child. The little girl was born while Mrs. Barnes, separated from her husband, was in Maine and the Phillips girl was keeping house in the Barnes home.

"Why should Mrs. Barnes want my child?" asks Miss Phillips. "Just because her husband is father of the child is no reason why she should have it. I cannot understand her attitude. I would not want the baby of a husband of mine under the conditions.

"I was unfortunate, but I am a fit woman to mother my child, and I shall keep on fighting to do so. Just now the baby is in the care of the State. When I get in a better position I shall provide the home."

Mrs. Barnes, incapable of motherhood, craves for a baby.

"I have a right to that baby," she declared. "Miss Phillips came to me one night when a December storm was raging outside. She had but thirty cents in her pocket. She came for the baby. She had to place to go with it, so she decided to give it to me. She wrote out a statement giving the child to me."

FATHER IGNORED.

The strangest figure in the entire [illegible] is John Barnes, the wonder-gazed husband of Mrs. Barnes, the inner lover of Miss Phillips and the father of the baby that is the center of the struggle.

Year's Best Selling Novel Reveals Mysterious Return of Youth and Beauty to Old Woman

Mary Zattany as she talked had never changed her expression

START THIS BEST-SELLER HERE TODAY

A young and beautiful woman creates a sensation at a first night in New York by rising in her seat at the theatre and coolly surveying the audience through her glasses, after the European fashion. Clavering and his friend, Dinwiddie, are immediately interested, and the latter receives a shock, declaring that she is the image of a former society belle, Mary Ogden, though much younger than she should be at that time. He thinks she may be a daughter. Clavering follows Mary home from the theatre and aids her to get into the house as she has lost her key. She invites him in and tells him she is Countess Josef Zattiany. He nearly guesses her secret. He asks her to marry him. He takes her to a gay studio party, after which she invites him home to hear her story of renewed youth.

READ ON. THE THRILLS COME FAST

"I SUPPOSE all this seems trivial to you—this mourning over lost youth—"

"Not at all. It must have been hell to a woman like you. As for women in general—they may make more fuss about it, but I fancy they hate it less than men."

"Yes, men are vainer than women," said Madame Zattiany indifferently. "But I have yet to waste any sympathy on men."

"I suppose I only fully realized that my youth, my beauty, my magnetic charm, had gone when men ceased to make violent love to me. They still paid court, for I was a very important person, my great prestige was a sort of halo, and I had never neglected my mind. There was nothing of significance I had not read during all these years. I was as profoundly interested in the great political currents of Europe, seen and unseen, as any man—or as any intelligent woman of European society.

"Moreover, I had the art of life down to a fine point, and I had not forgotten that even in friendship men are drawn to the subtle woman who knows how to envelop herself in a certain mystery. And European men are always eager to talk with an accomplished woman, even if she has no longer the power to stir their facile passions.

"When I realized that my sex power had left me I rejoiced on entirely new set of tactics—never would I provoke a jaded smile on the faces I once had the power to distort! With no evidence of regret for my lost enchantment I remained merely the alert and always interested woman of the world, to whom men, if sufficiently entertaining, were welcome companions for the moment, nothing more.

"I cemented many friendships. I cultivated a certain philosophy for my own private solace—and although, for a time, there were moments of headdered groping and of intense rebellion, or a sudden and hideous sense of inferiority, I twisted the necks of those noxious weeds thrusting themselves upward into my consciousness and threatening to strangle it, and trampled them under the heel of my will. It was by no means the least happy interval of my life, for I was very healthy. I took a great deal of outdoor exercise and there was a sense of freedom I never had experienced before. Love is slavery, and I was no longer a slave.

"After my husband's death, as I told you, I opened the Zattiany palace in Vienna once more (my nephew and his wife preferred Paris and I leased it from them), expecting to follow the life I had mapped out, until I was too old for interests of any sort. I had a brilliant salon and I was sometime of a political power. Of course, I knew that the war was coming long before hatreds and ambitions reached their climax and advised the union of whom I have spoken. Mathilde Lovs, and other friends to invest large sums of money in the United States. Judge Trent arranged the trusteeship in each case.

"Where is this man?"

"I do not know. He went down with the old regime, of course, and would be a pauper but for these American investments and a small amount in Switzerland. He has occupied no position in the new government, although he was a Liberal in politics. What he is doing I have no idea. I have not seen him for years."

"Well—go on"

"It was only when I became aware of a growing hostitude, a constant sense of effort, in talking everlastingly on subjects that called for constant alertness and often reorientation, that I was really aghast and began to look toward the future not only with a sense of helplessness but of intolerable weariness.

"I used to feel an inclination to turn my head away with an actual physical gesture when concentration was imperative. I thought that my position was psychological that I had lived too much and too hard, that my memory was overburdened and my sense of the futility and meaninglessness of life too overwhelming. But I know now that the condition was physical, the result of the degeneration of certain cells.

"I spent the Summer alone on my estate in Hungary, and when it was over I determined to close the palace in Vienna and remain in the country. I could not go back to that restless high-pitched life, with its ceaseless gaiety on the one hand and its feverish politics and pernicious tumblings on the other. My tired mind rebelled. And the long strain had told on my health.

"I lived an almost completely outdoor life, riding, walking, swimming in the lake, hunting, but carefully not to overtax my returning strength. I was not in love with life, far from it! But I had no intention of adding invalidism to my other disinterestions. In the evening I played cards with my secretary or practised at the piano, with some revival of my old interest in music. I read little, even in the newspapers. I was become, save perhaps for my music, an automaton.

"But, although I did not improve in appearance, my health was completely restored, and when the war came I was in perfect condition for the arduous task I immediately undertook. Moreover, my mind, torpid for a year, was free and refreshed for those practical details it must grapple at once. I turned the Zattiany palace in Buda Pesth into a hospital. And then for four years I was again an automaton, but this time a necessary and useful one.

"When I thought about myself at all, " seemed to me that this selfless and strenuous interval was the final severance from my old life. If society in Europe today were miraculously restored to its pre-war brilliancy—indifferent to little but excitement and pleasure—there would be nothing in it for me.

"Now I come to the miracle." And while she recapitulated what she had told the women at Mrs. Oglethorpe's luncheon, Clavering listened without chaos in his accompanying thoughts. "Certainly, man's span is too brief now," she concluded. "He withers and dies at an age when, if he has lived wisely—and when a man abuses his natural functions he generally does before old age, anyhow—he is beginning to see life as a whole, with that detachment that comes when his personal hold on life and affairs is relaxing, when he has realized his mistakes, and has attained a mental and moral orientation which could be of inestimable service to his fellow men, and to civilization in general.

"What you call crankiness in old people, so trying to the younger generations, does not arise from natural balefulness of disposition and a released concential selfishness, but from atrophying glands, and, no doubt, a subtle rebellion against nature for consigning men to ineptitude when they should be entering upon their best period of usefulness, and philosophical as well as active enjoyment of life.

"Science has defeated nature at many points. The isolation of germs, the discovery of toxins and serums, the triumph over diseases that once wasted whole nations and brought about the fall of empires, the arrest of infant mortality, the marvels of vivisection and surgery—the list is endless. It is entirely logical, and no more marvellous, that science should be able to arrest senescence, put back the clock. The wonder is that it has not been done before."

She rose, still looking down at the fire, which Clavering had replenished twice. "I am going now.

And I have no fear that you will not keep your promise! But remember this when thinking it over: I do not merely look young again, I am young.

"I am not five years I have passed in this world, I am the age of the rejuvenated glands in my body. Some day we shall have the proverb: 'A man is as old as his endocrines.' Of course I can not have children. The treatment is identical with that for sterilization. This consideration may influence you. I shall use no arguments nor seductions. You will have decided upon all that before we meet again. Good night." And she was gone.

It seemed to Clavering that he had run the gamut of the emotions while listening to that brief biography, so sterilely told, but there had also been times when he had felt as if suspended in a void even while visited by flashes of acute consciousness that he was being called upon to know himself for the first time in his life. And in such fashion as no man had ever been called upon to know himself before.

There was no precedent in life or in fiction to guide him, and he had realized with a sensation of panic even while she talked that it was doubtful if any one had ever understood himself since the dawn of time. Man had certain standards, fixed beliefs, ideals, above all, habits—how often they scattered to the winds under some unheralded or fortuitous stress. He had seen it more than once, and not only in war.

Every man had at least two personalities that he was aware of, and he dimly guessed at others. Some were frank enough to admit that they had not an idea what they would do in a totally unfamiliar situation. Clavering had sometimes emblemized man and his personalities with the old game of the ivory egg.

Fair Knowledge

A twist and the outer egg revealed an inner. Another and one beheld a third. And so on to the inner unmanipulatable sphere, which might stand for the always inscrutable soul. Like all intelligent men, he had a fair knowledge of these two outer layers of personality, and he had sometimes had a flashing glimpse of others, too elusive to seize and put under the microscopic eye of the mind.

What did he know of himself? He asked the question again as he sat in his own deep chair in the early morning hours. The heat in the hotel had been turned off and he had lit the gas logs in the grate—symbol of the artificialities of civilization that had played their insidious role in man's outer and more familiar personality. Perhaps they struck deeper. Habit more often than not dominated original impulse.

His own room, where he was nearly always alone, with its warm red curtains and rug, the low bookcases built under his direction and filled with his favorite books, the refractory table and other pieces of dark old English oak that he had brought from home, and several family portraits on the wall, restored his equilibrium and his brain was abnormally clear. He wondered if he ever would sleep again. Better think it over now.

Mary Zattiany as she talked had never changed her expression. She might have been some ancient oracle reciting her credo, and she seemed to have narcotized that magnetic current that had always vibrated between them. Nevertheless, he had been fully aware that she fell like nothing less than an oracle or the marble bust she looked, and that her soul was racked and possibly fainting, but mastered by her formidable will.

No Mate on Earth

Formidable. Did that word best express her? Was she one of the supervomen who could find no mate on earth and must look for her god on another star? He certainly was no superman himself to breathe on her plane and mate that incarnate will. Had she any human weakness? Even that subterranean sex-life in her past had not been due to weakness. She was far more arrogant for that. Life had been her foot-stool. She had kicked it about contemptuously. Ever her readjustments had been the dictates of her impulses will. And her pride! She was a female Lucifer in pride.

No doubt the men she had dismissed had been greatly relieved; stung for the only time in their lives perhaps, with a sense of inferiority. It must have been like receiving the royal dismissal of a queen on her throne. Well, she had got it in the neck once; there was some satisfaction in that. He wished he knew the man's name. He'd hunt him up and thank him in behalf of his sex.

Whipple Cake

This makes about 1 doz. small cakes or a small loaf or sheet—½ cup butter, lard or drippings (or a little of each), cream with ½ cup sugar, add ½ cup molasses and ½ cup sweet or sour milk or water. Add two cups flour saving ½ cup to mix with 1 cup seeded or seedless raisins, or any kind of fruit or nuts. It is a nice common cake without any fruit. Dissolve 1 teaspoon soda in molasses or milk. A good way is to measure molasses, turn in the cake bowl and then put the ½ cup milk in the molasses cup and add the soda. Add 1 teaspoon clove, 1 or cinnamon, a little nutmeg, mace or pimento, if you like it, a little salt. Floured raisins last.

Tomato Souffle

One and a half cups canned or fresh tomatoes, ½ cup boiling water, 1 tablespoon butter, 2 tablespoons cream, 6 tablespoons flour, 2 eggs, 1 cup grated cheese; season to taste. Add the boiling water to the tomatoes. Mix together the flour and cream and add with the butter to the tomatoes. Boil two or three minutes and add the cheese. Set aside to partially cool. Beat the yokes and whites of the eggs, separately. When the mixture is partially cool, add yolks and mix thoroughly, then fold in the beaten whites. Bake in a buttered baking dish or casserole for about 20 minutes and serve at once.

WAYS OF A HUSBAND

SEQUEL TO "WHEN A GIRL MARRIES"

By Arin Lisle

"I could only say it to you here." I began hesitatingly. Then I forced myself to an abrupt declaration of the thing I dreaded to put into words. "Ralph—is it fair for me too ask you to help me in my search for Neal?"

"You are doing me the compliment of remembering that I care for you," murmured Ralph. "Why isn't it the most natural thing in the world for me to help you?"

"That's why," I said quietly. "If you didn't see me you might forget and find someone else."

"I will never forget Ralph answered simply. "Seeing you or not seeing you doesn't change what's the biggest thing in my life. I know you love me. But life can't give me anything finer than the privilege of being your friend. I want to serve you."

"It isn't fair," I said miserably.

"It seems cruel to me myself."

Ralph smiled at me with some thing so like Neal's in his boyish sweetness of his expression that my heart ached, even while he lifted it up by his ringing proclamation:

"I'm a man. Accustomed to finding my way about. You trust me to take care of myself and of you, too, whenever I can. I love Neal. I know the boy's white. I'm bent on finding him and giving him a chance to prove his absolute honesty. It can't be proved and established so all-dounting Thomases will have to accept his integrity—until the boy comes back to face them. So just on my own I'm keen to start a search. As an outsider I couldn't unless you said the word."

"I do say it—if it's fair to you." I began, then was compelled to acknowledge: "I suppose I'd never have put this up to you if I had not felt so sure of your devotion and generosity. But I wish I didn't feel so brutally ruthless. I wish it were fair to you. You deserve so much better than you're getting."

"I'm getting the great privilege of serving you," said Ralph, almost sternly. "Don't you know the only thing that wouldn't be fair would be to keep me from serving you?"

I gave him my hand on that as a pledge of the quest on which we were bound. Then, before I could speak, I heard a voice humming "Sally in Our Alley," and a flutter of skirts between the bushes told me Aunt May had come in search of us. Presently I heard her calling our names.

"She wouldn't risk intruding—even in her own garden," I said to Ralph. Then I lifted my voice and cried:

"Here we are, dear; by the sundial. Come and find us."

Smiling gently, Aunt May came down the path and sank on the curved bench beside me. Her arm slipped around my shoulders and she asked:

"Isn't this a blessed spot, child? Wouldn't it be a refuge for any burdened soul?"

"Say, don't shut out all but the wayworn travelers," protested Ralph. "I'm a happy soul, but I love this place."

SECRETS OF HEALTH

WHY NOT SLEEP ON THE ROOF

By Charles A. L. Reed, M. D. (Former President of the American Medical Association.)

YOUR first necessity is air. You can't live without air for longer than about two minutes.

Your health depends upon purity of the air you breathe. The air on the inside of any house is never as pure as the air outside of the same house.

Dr. Reed.

The fear of night air is a bugaboo that started at Rome where the people who slept out of doors in the Campagnia developed fever, just as people had done before and have done ever since when sleeping in swampy districts.

It took 2,000 years to find out that the sickness came from mosquitos, and not from the night air, and that if the mosquitos are eliminated the fever, or other illness does not occur.

If every living house in every city had a flat top with the walls run up a few feet for protection and the slightly sloping floor plastered to make it level, the inhabitants could sleep there not only in safety but with benefit to their health.

If the proprietors of flat-topped skyscrapers would make such facilities available for the use of tenants of crowded districts around them they would be doing a humane act of inestimable value.

The whole principle has an intimate relation to the housing problem, to the anti-tuberculosis problem, to the general disease prevention problem, to the outdoor relief and the hospital problem—and finally to the rights of every one of us to the best air that may be made available for our health and efficiency.

Peter Manning, 1:56¾, the world's champion trotter, will endeavor to lower his own mark, 1:58¾, trotting, made at the Readville grand circuit meeting.

Tommy Murphy, one of the greatest reinsman of the American turf, has the champion in superb condition for the fight against time, and the admirers of the famous trotter believe that a new mark will be hung up at the conclusion of his trial Tuesday afternoon.

FIVE STAR EVENTS FOR OPENING DAY

On the opening day's card is featured the 2:05 trot, purse $1000 in which McGregor the Great 2:03¾, the favorite Boston stallion, will meet a splendid field.

Other events for the day include, The Fair Oaks purse $2000, the Beaumont Farm 2:12 trot, purse $3000, The Lincoln Jackpot, purse $1270 and the George F. Leonard Bay State Circuit trot, 2:15, purse $2000.

Wednesday will be known as "Governor's Day." Governor Cox, an ardent friend of the American trotter and racer, will be the special guest of the day.

The renewal of the 2:08 trot The Massachusetts, purse $10,000, presents one of the greatest fields of the present season, in which Clyde the Great is the favorite.

The American Horsebreeder Futurity, purse $5,000, comprised of foals of 1920; the American Horse Breeder Futurity, foals of 1921, purse $2,500, while the closing race of the day is the 2:09 trot, purse $1,000.

Thursday will be known as Army and Navy Day. Invitations have been extended to General Andre W. Brewster, U. S. A., commanding the First Army Area Corps, and Rear Admiral Louis R. de Steiguer, U. S. N., commandant of the Boston Navy Yard, and their aides.

The feature event of the day will be the Blue Hill free-for-all trot, purse $5,000.

Other events for the day include the 2:05 pacers, $1000 purse. The Sunny Day purse, $3000; foals of 1921 and the Justin Edwards Bay State Circuit for 2:13 Paces Purse, $2000.

Friday will be known as Boston Day, on which a reunion of old Boston horsemen will be held.

The most important feature of the day will be the Free-for-all Pace, purse $2000.

Featured also upon the closing day is the 2:12 trot, purse $1000; the 2:09 pace, purse $1000; the 2:16 trot, purse $1000 and the 2:14 pace, purse $1000.

Will Play at Concord

The Concord Junction Union Club team will take on the Cambridge Baseball Club in a twilight game on the Concord Junction playground tonight.

FOUR GAMES IN TWILIGHT LEAGUE

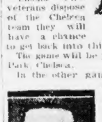
Dilbey Post will open up its home in their game with the Millstream Social and Athletic Club of Chelsea in one of the four Twilight League games this evening.

Should the veterans dispose of the Chelsea team they will have a chance to get back into third place.

The game will be played at Merritt Park, Chelsea.

In the other games St. Andrews A. A. will play Medford at Medford, the Concord All Stars of Lynn will play at Reading and Everett will battle the North Cambridge leaders on Russell Field, North Cambridge.

Al Clements



Bob Lee

Bob Lee again has hit his stride for the Dilbys nine and is one of the Somerville players who has the attention of the fans and ball scouts.

At Reading the Cornet All Stars always make a game interesting. Al Clements will pitch for the Cornets and should be a hard man for the home team.

GOURDIN TO SHOW AT WILCOX GAMES

Ned Gourdin, world's record holder in the running broad jump does not intend to let anything stand in his way of making the American Olympic team next summer and he expects to make it as the best broad jumper in the United States. For that reason he will not defend his national pentathlon championship which he has held for the past two years if the Detroit officials persist in their plans to hold it on September 8, as on that day he is going to compete in the Pre-Olympic games of the Wilco A. A. at the Yankee Stadium.

FLETCHER WILL PILOT PHILS IN 1924

Philadelphia, Aug. 24—Arthur Fletcher, manager of the Philadelphia National League baseball club, signed a contract to pilot the team again next year.

Fletcher, however, refused to sign a three-year contract proffered him by William F. Baker, president of the club.

"Fletcher is the best manager in the league," asserted Mr. Baker. "I wish I could have signed him to a three-year contract and I have left that offer open so that he can accept at any time he desires to accept it. Fletcher has done excellent work this year and is building a good team."

At the time Fletcher contracted to manage the Phillies last Winter, he announced that he would not seek another contract as manager unless he satisfied himself that he achieved results.

EVERETT SCOTT IN ELEVEN HUNDREDTH

Detroit, Aug. 24.—The Yankees lost their first series in the West this season when they dropped the game to Detroit, 2 to 1.

The best the Yankees can do is to win today the remaining game, which will make this series stand two defeats and one victory.

Heilmann made his fifteenth homer of the season in the last half of the second, after Pipp had cracked out one in the first half.

Everett Scott, the Yankee short, played his 1100th consecutive game.

Rubber Game Aug. 29

The Concord Junction Union Club baseball outfit will play its rubber game with the Chelmsford town nine, on Aug. 29.

Dempsey Wrecks His Sparring Partners

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 24—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, today faces the prospect of shortening his training in preparation for his fifteen-round contest with Luis Angel Firpo at New York, September 14, due to the lack of sparring partners.

The two heavyweights in camp—George Godfrey, a 225-pound negro, and Jack Burke of Pittsburgh—still are suffering from the six weeks' training siege they went through while the champion was preparing for his Fourth of July match with Tommy Gibbons at Shelby, Montana.

Dempsey plans to exercise caution with them so they will be in condition to withstand a battering during the final two weeks of training.

Billy Wells, British welterweight champion, has left camp. He has a bruised left hand and probably would be unable to face Dempsey for at least two weeks.

Jules Rioux, the French Canadian lumberjack, who decided a ring future would be more attractive than felling trees, also is among the missing. He left here a badly battered young man.

Jack Kearns, manager of the heavyweight champion, plans to augment the sparring staff before next week.

Dempsey's training camp is the place occupied by Frank Moran, the Pittsburgh heavyweight, during the time he was considered a champion ship possibility. The two cottages in which Dempsey and his staff live are on the shore of Saratoga Lake, within fifty feet of the water's edge.

Dempsey, with the same little negro cook he had in camp at Great Falls, Mont., while training for Gibbons, occupies a five-room cottage, while his sparring partners are quartered in an adjoining cottage of six rooms. The champion's cottage is surrounded with a high wire fence. A big sign, reading, "Private—No Admittance," warns visitors to keep out.

Dempsey's cottage is without a bath or other modern conveniences.

NATIONAL CUSHION TOURNEY SEPT. 16.

Chicago, Aug. 24—The National championship tournament of the Inter-State Three-Cushion Billiard League will open at St. Louis September 16.

The official schedule follows:

St. Louis, Sept. 16, 17 and 18; Kansas City, Sept. 19, 20 and 21; New York, Sept. 24, 25 and 26; Philadelphia, Sept. 27, 28 and 29.

The starters will be John Layton of St. Louis, Robert L. Cassella of New York, Tiff Denton of Kansas City and Otto Reiheli of Philadelphia.

LADIES' DAY AT BRAVES FIELD TODAY

By NICK FLATLEY.

Today is another big day at Braves Field, for the Braves will observe it as a ladies' day, and all women, alone or with a gentleman, or with another woman, or with a bunch of women, are welcome.

The Pirates will cut up in the special celebration of the fair sex and are probably free to win another game so as to have as many possible ladies present as they can accommodate in the long home stretch.

Judge Emil Fuchs, the vice president of the club is keenly interested in the ladies' day idea, and says that one will be held every week. He thinks that the presence of women at the games gives the baseball battle tone, color and picturesque effect.

The Pirates are popular. Manager Bill McKechnie will do his best to grab the pastime this afternoon and will put his best foot forward. He has not named his pitcher, and no doubt only knows, on the case of guessing. But the American scout card is almost as sure as Bill is, so let's look and see who will be in the box.

BANNER GAME FOR DORCHESTER FANS

The Dorchester Millstreams take on the Philadelphia Colored Giants for tonight's attraction at C. J. Gibson grounds, Fields Corner. This is one of the best invading ball nines to ever appear at the Dorchester orchard and the fans should see a great attraction.

The Millstreams have strengthened considerably for this game, having assigned Morrill to the pitching rubber and Art Grace will do the receiving. Hayes, who recently came back from Canada, will play in the outfield and Pat Concannon will show at the hot corner.

G. F. REDMOND & CO. NINE BEATS STARS

G. F. Redmond & Co. nine easily disposed of the Carr All Stars on the C. J. Lee Playgrounds, South Boston, 9 to 4. Gil Arthur pitched his fourth straight game for Redmond and allowed only five clean hits. The hitting of Ware, Flynn and Minehan were the features.

Lissie Murphy played for the All Stars.

NEW YORK LEAD CUT DOWN A HALF GAME

New York, Aug. 24—New York's lead in the National League was reduced by another half game, when the world's champions divided a double-header with St. Louis. The Giants won the first game, 8 to 7, and lost the second, 7 to 4.

In the first game, St. Louis rallied in the eighth and ninth innings and scored three runs in each and tied the score. Meusel's homer then won the game in New York's half.

PANGRAZE TO TACKLE HIRSH

By JACK CONWAY.

Who is the New England bantamweight champion?

You will get the answer at Quincy tonight when Abe Friedman battles Tony Thomas in a 20 round bout at the Arena A. A. alongside at the Fore River grounds.

Friedman has been claiming the New England title. When he battled Tommy Nee at the Arena the other night, it was announced that the go was for the New England championship. Nee Abe won, he let the world know he still grasped the New England crown.

Cold facts, however, show that Tony Thomas, New Bedford bantamweight, won a decision over Friedman at New Bedford on April 30. And according to the way we view things pugilistic championship changes hands when a boxer loses a decision to a member of his own boxing division. Therefore, Thomas' claim to the New England title is superior to Friedman's.

THOMAS HAS AGGRESSIVENESS AND A HEALTHY PUNCH

Tarpe's nothing fancy about Thomas. He is a rugged, two-handed fighter who keeps going forward every second he's in the ring. This nineteen year old youth has walloped Frankie Conway, Barney Snyder, Ruby Levine, Johnny Fox, Friedman and a host of other ring celebrities. He figures 'tis a mere matter of form tonight at Quincy. He doesn't believe that Friedman or any other bantamweight can stand up before his determined, relentless rushes.

It is the biggest bout ever staged at Quincy. It will be a fast, torrid battle from beginning to end.

Thomas will have a regular fight on his hands. In his last start Friedman pricked the Nee bubble. Prior to that he gave Pancho Villa the hardest battle that worthy has had since coming to America. For six rounds Abe was out front. The boy fought then took upon him and the Filipino won a close decision.

As tonight's bout will be at catch-weights, Thomas and Friedman will have all of their strength when they enter the ring. It is expected that the rivals will scale around 120 pounds.

Al Pangraze and Victor Hirsh will quarrel in the semi-final of ten rounds. Pangraze is a big favorite in Quincy. As Hirsh is also a rugged performer, a lively battle is assured. Kid Lambert of Quincy and Richie

SWIMMERS RUSH TO ENTER BOSTON AMERICAN LIGHT TEST

RECORD LIST SURE IN HARBOR CONTEST

The Boston American championship long distance swim on September 9 promises to be the most successful event of the season. Among those who have entered are Percy Allen of the L Street Swimmers' Club, who led the last Light swim to Castle Island; Frank (Podge) Murphy of Lowell, a veteran of distance swimming; Jacob Braff of East Boston, Michael Wrenn of Lowell, James Twohig of South Boston, Arthur Ross of the Ansonia Council of Boston.

Walter Paterson of Bridgeport, Ct., considered the champion breast stroke swimmer of the world by many experts, has signified his intention of competing, and should prove the most dangerous man in the swim.

The Light swim is considered the real test for distance swimming. Boston can well feel proud of the records of its distance swimmers. The distance of ten miles is made up of strong flowing tides which prove a stumbling block to many notable swimmers from other sections of the country.

In fostering this swim the Boston American feels that it will settle the question as to who is the real distance swimming champion of America. There have been many claims for this honor, but in most cases the test was made in the smooth waters of some lake, or in the favorable flow of a river.

It is the aim of the American to have each swimmer piloted in the proper course to the light, and will supply a chart of the course to each pilot to assure the swimmer of the correct direction.

In the past many capable swimmers have been thwarted from reaching the light by poor piloting, and have wasted much strength by going off the course.

Michael Wrenn of Lowell who finished well up in the last Boston Light Swim was cheated from making the light on this occasion by lack of knowledge of the course. Wrenn was picked up a great distance off the correct course, and had to give up owing to a fast flowing out tide that was taking him out to sea.

The stalwart policeman declares he will make the light in the Boston American Swim.

The swim will be under the sanction of the L. S. A. U. and open to all registered athletes. Those wishing to enter should fill out the entry blank appearing on this page.

WOLGAST LIKES TO TOPPLE CHAMPS

Two of the greatest little men in the ring today will clash at Mechanics Building next Tuesday night for the flyweight title of America when Frankie Genaro of New York, present holder of the championship, meets Bobby Wolgast, of Philadelphia over the 10-round route.

Wolgast, who is the latest sensation in fistiana, is called the "Champion's Jinx." Three times he has met champions in no-decision bouts in Philadelphia and each time he won the concensus of opinion decisions from Joe Lynch, Pancho Villa and Frankie Genaro.

Until Wolgast met these three titleholders, he wasn't heard of outside the confines of Philadelphia, but today his record and his sensational string of victories is well known among fistic fandom.

[illegible] cyclone in the ring when Wolgast gets into action. There is never a dull moment when the Quicker begins [illegible] fisted fighter with a punch in either hand and he knows how to put it over.

One of the greatest fighting cards that was ever staged in Boston will precede the main bout. The semi-final will introduce Willie Corbett of Somerville, and Micky Landers of the North End. The winner will be matched with the lightweight champion of New England.

K. O. Eddie Williams, the popular East Boston boy, will meet Freddie Williams, the [illegible] of Dorchester. This should be a real battle in itself as both are out for bigger game.

Jack Dillon, Woburn's candidate for the welterweight title, will meet Bobby Conlon, the "Fighting Harp" from Charlestown. Each weighs 150 pounds and should provide plenty of fireworks.

Reservations may be secured at the Commonwealth Club, No. 28 School Street, Room X.

ADDING AN R. F. STAGE TO AN ULTRA-AUDION

One of the most convenient circuits for portable use is the ultra-audion. Although not so well-known as the standard regenerative circuit, it is comparable to it in efficiency.

An ultra-audio with one stage of radio-frequency makes an exceptionally efficient circuit, as shown in the accompanying diagram.

The tuning of this circuit is a little tricky for those who are used to the plan regenerative or the ordinary radio-frequency amplifier, but there are only two principal controls to master.

One of the advantages of the circuit is the fact that it will cover efficiently the entire broadcast wave band if a good radio-frequency transformer is used.

In place of the variometer, a tapped coil of from 75 to 100 turns may be used; but the variometer will give much sharper tuning.

Oscillations in the radio-frequency tubes are controlled by theh potentiometer (200 to 400 ohms). This should be adjusted so that the circuit is just on the safe side of oscillation. A .001 mfd. fixed condenser may be shunted across the potentiometer from the primary circuit to the negative filament lead. This will allow the radio-frequency currents to pass without going through the resistance of the potentiometer.

Some tubes operate better on radio-frequency amplifiers with only eighteen volts on the plate, and the builder of this unit should experiment with B battery voltage on the first tube. The usual 22½ volts is correct for the detector tube.

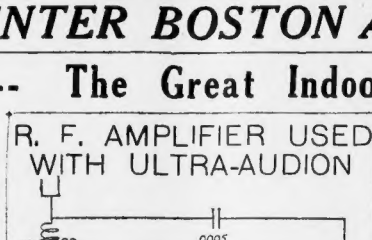
R. F. AMPLIFIER USED WITH ULTRA-AUDION



A single stage of radio-frequency amplification may be added to an ultra-audion receiver, making a very sensitive set. A tapped coil may be used in place of the variometer, but the variometer will give sharper tuning. Makes a delicate set to handle, but a little practice gives remarkable results.

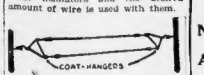
Today's Winning Wrinkle

At good portable aerial may be made by using two ordinary wire clothes hangers as spreaders, as shown in the diagram herewith. Four insulators and the desired amount of wire is used with them.



Each end of the hangers should be bent with a pair of pliers so that the wires will have a tendency to pull together. The hooks on the hangers make it possible to fasten the aerial in place easily. They are especially valuable for campers. Contributed by E. J. Newton.

The Boston American will give a dollar every day for the best radio wrinkle. Address Radio Editor, Boston American, 80 Summer street, Boston, Mass.

AMATEUR MITT MEN BATTLE TONIGHT

Indications point to the amateur boxing show at the Boston Arena, under the auspices of the Hopkinton A. A., tonight, being the biggest show of its kind held in Boston, and outside of the National A. A. U. championships.

It is safe to say that the coming show of the organization from Central Massachusetts will equal the class that has appeared in the New England championships of recent years. Every amateur boxer of prominence, not only in Boston and vicinity, but from Western Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut and Northern New England will appear in the ring at the Arena.

Charlie Clapp, the representative of the Hopkinton A. A. on the New England Board of Governors, who is in charge of the coming tournament, sends out word that he has received entries from every quarter of New England and that all the bouts have signified their intention of appearing at the opening show of this organization.

This being the first attempt at boxing by the Hopkinton A. A., it is the intention of the management to give the followers of amateur boxing a show that they will long remember, and it is safe to say that this "live wire" organization will carry on.

HEYDLER KILLS TALK OF ANOTHER BASEBALL SCANDAL

DUNCAN AND BOHNE ARE CLEARED

By THOMAS L. CUMMISKEY

New York, Aug. 24.—President John Heydler of the National League exploded rumore of another major league baseball scandal growing out of the charges by a Chicago sports weekly that outfielder Pat Duncan and infielder Sam Bohne of the Reds had been approached by gamblers in the last series between the Reds and Giants in Cincinnati.

The players under oath, before a notary public, in the presence of President Heydler and Cincinnati newspapermen traveling with the team, told of the occurrence. The investigation was held in President Heydler's office to which the players were called.

President Heydler stated he had talked with both players before being sent for by Ban Johnson, and said they should go to Cincinnati, and said they should go to Cincinnati, and file suit immediately.

John A. Heydler.

He declared that baseball is in a too prominent position to be made the butt of the World Series and that he took such assertion as made by the Chicago publication to go unchallenged.

In going to the law courts with a suit for libel and President Heydler said he understood the action of the Cincinnati baseball players in bringing suit for libel against the Chicago publication was well considered by him as he completely innocent of wrong doing.

Dark secrets have been going the rounds since the appearance of the story, but none have caused the interest aroused by the charges that baseball would be rocked to its foundations if the whole truth were told. It is believed by baseball men that baseball would be rocked to its foundations if the whole truth were told. It is believed by baseball men that baseball would be rocked to its foundations if the whole truth were told.

SHEVLIN TO FINISH TRAINING IN BOSTON.

Eddie Shevlin, New England welterweight champion, used good judgement in deciding to complete his training for the bout with George Ward, which will be staged by the Suffolk A. A. at the Arena next Friday night. In this city. He has done his preliminary work in Maine, where he did his training in the open air. From now on Shevlin will require a great deal of boxing. He will be able to secure the services of better sparring partners here than would be the case if he remained in Maine.

The Suffolk Club's office, at Room 20 No. 409 Washington street, has been a busy place, with hundreds of ringside reservations each day.

WILLIAMS GETS HIS 31ST HOME RUN

Philadelphia, Aug. 24—Chicago took the opening game of the series from Philadelphia, 5 to 4, by playing a big lead in the early innings. Faulkner drove Grimes from the box, netting the Cubs four scattered hits in the first seven innings.

Williams hit his 31st home run of the season in the fourth inning, the ball hitting the top of the wall in right field and dropping out of the park.

U. S. and Canadian Veteran-Golfers in Tourney

Montreal, Aug. 24—The United States Senior Golf Association has donated a cup for a competition between Canadian and American veterans, with a handicap of 10 or less, it was announced. The first contest for the trophy will be held September 8 in connection with the annual tournament of the Canadian Senior Golf Association at the Royal Montreal Club. Thereafter it will be competed for alternately in the United States and Canada.

The Duke of Devonshire cup, won by the United States for the past four years, will be defended by a team of American senior golfers in a match with the Canadians on September 7.

VENTURA OIL IS SOLD OFF IN BOSTON

Ventura Oil was again reactionary on the Boston Stock Exchange today, selling off a major fraction, at 20 in active trading. Edison lost a point, at 162.

Other issues selling lower, all for fractions, were American Telephone, National Leather, Producers & Refiners, New Cornelia, Warren Brothers and Connor Stores.

Stocks slightly higher included Amoskeag Woolen preferred, Boston & Maine, Copper Range, Old Dominion, United Fruit, Southern States Oil and New England Telephone.

Hardy Coal, United Shoe, Island Creek Coal, Old Colony Railroad and Amoskeag all unchanged.

Hornblower & Weeks in market wire today says: We look for high er prices before the close today, and again tomorrow, the real test of the market's immediate direction occurring early next week. A needed stimulus may be given the railroad department today in the report of Erie. Activity occurring in the rail shares, we would prefer to follow those previously suggested, including New Haven which is expected to come through the year with an earning position apparently re-established.

ARMOUR & CO.

To R. H., Porter road—We beg to advise that Armour & Co. of Delaware 7 per cent. preferred stock is just as good in quality today, in our opinion, as it was the day it was put on the market and offered for sub the subscription at $13 a share more than its present selling level. And that isn't saying much. The stock never did have a high investment rating, and it hasn't one now. It represents the outer circumference of the inner Armour circle. And that inner Armour circle is Armour & Co of Illinois, control of which rests with Armour & Co of Delaware. Wheels within wheels, but each additional "wheel" means added capitalization, and meaning also excessive capitalization. Personally, the writer doesn't take much "stock" in this stock. It has only a thin investment quality, in our opinion.

Hope Webbing Co. has outstanding $750,000 7 per cent. cumulative preferred and $1,000,000 common. The company employs about one thousand persons, maintains a good surplus. Dividends on the preferred are regularly paid. And dividends of 2 per cent. quarterly payments he paid on the common stock in 1918 to 1920, inclusive.

Utah Power & Light 7 per cent. first preferred stock has a good rating. Consumers Power of Michigan 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock has a good rating.

VACUUM OIL.

To T. R., Fitchburg—Vacuum Oil Co. declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on the new $25 par stock payable Sept. 20, stock record Aug. 31. On June 20 last an initial semi annual dividend of $1 a share was paid on the issue and announcement made that thereafter quarter ly dividends would be declared.

U. S. SMELTING.

To G., Wetland ave.—Your inquiry reveals a state of mind that we can appreciate. And were we, ourselves, holders of U. S. & Smelting, Refining & Mining Co. con mon stock, we guess we would feel just as you do about it. In paying $75 a share for this stock, you paid within $1 of the record high for 1922 and within $3.25 of the record high of 1921. In 1922 the stock declined from $76 a share to $29.50 a share. It has paid no common dividends since Jan. 15, 1921, but the preferred dividend has gone out regularly. Last year the company earned $1.19 per common share.

In 1921 it earned nothing but a deficit of $246,000. In 1920 it earned $6.58 a share, paid $10 a share, and had a resulting deficit of $548,000.

In the first half of the present year the company earned about $1,425,000, after allowing interest charges on the company's $12,000,000 of notes, and allowing for depreciation and depletion, as well as maintaining dividends on the preferred stock. This is equivalent to about $1.60 a share on the outstanding common stock or at the rate of $3.20 for the year. This certainly is encouraging and should sooner or later find reflection in the market price for the shares.

We are not inclined to advise you to sell your stock now. We think your chances are better to hold it, though we can realize somewhat the disappointment that must possess you when you see the very big discrepancy from its present market price and the price you paid. Eventually it will come back partly, if not wholly, in our opinion

BETTER BUYING REPORTED BY MOODY'S

Moody's Weekly Review of Financial Conditions in its current issue says:—

"Better buying of goods and materials has been the feature of the past week. Commodity prices have turned firmer, and the stock market has been benefitted by the improving unfilled orders of industrial companies.

"Two outstanding points in the trade situation are, first, that no protracted boom from the level seems practically possible, because we are already so close to the ceiling of prosperity, and, second, that a rebound or temporary recovery founded upon the Autumn trade does seem distinctly possible.

"Investors, then, may well be rather deliberate in disposing of or exchanging, unstable stocks and bonds which, in their do not present sufficient premiumship. Perhaps they can obtain somewhat better prices for them a little later, and there should not be much room for loss for a few weeks since the Autumn trade which underlies the better tone of the stock market is just in its beginning.

"This boom in railroad conditions is due mainly to a realization that the great activity of the structural industries and, second, the full employment of labor at high wages. The structural activity means an extra large traffic to ores forest products and building materials; and the full employment means a heavy movement of merchandise and miscellaneous goods.

"Investing in new buildings now is very popular. We are thus investing about 2½ times as much as before the war, 4 times as much as in 1900 or 5 times as much as in 1890. Present building operations are probably about 40 to 50 per cent above what might now be called normal."

FIGURES ON WORLD TRADE GROWTH GIVEN

Bureau of Commerce says world trade of 1922 increased 20.7 per cent in gold dollars over 1913, and 8.4 per cent over 1921. Increase over 1913 was due altogether to higher prices. In bulk 1922 trade was larger than in 1921, but below 1913 volume.

In 1922, United States had highest absolute increase over 1913 in value of imports, $2,647,000,000 followed by Great Britain with $1,272,168,000 and by Japan's $1,007,025,000. Japan's gain, due to remarkable industrial expansion, was relatively the highest, 148 8 per cent.

Compared with 1913, other value increases were: United States, 69.4 per cent.; Australia, 47.2 per cent., Canada, 46.2 per cent.; France, 22.7 per cent.; United Kingdom, 18.6 per cent.; British India, 11.4 per cent. Brazil's trade declined 20 per cent., Belgium's (with Luxemburg now included) 26.2 per cent.

MASQUERADE AT LAKE SPOFFORD CLUB

Members and guests of the Lake Spofford Club at Spofford, N. H., were enthusiastic over the annual masquerade party which was held on August 11. Many unique and beautiful costumes were seen, the [illegible] coming where Mrs. Walter [illegible] of New York was awarded the prize for the most original costume, and Mrs. [illegible] was awarded to Miss Betty Johnson of Mt. Holly, N. J., who wore a most quaint old-costume made out of [illegible] which pleased everyone. The [illegible] many of the summer guests and [illegible] were announced in the form of a raid on the citizens [illegible] P. M. [illegible] arrival.

A barn dance and farmers party is planned for August 29.

SUNSET INN OPENED IN SOUTH SUDBURY

Mr. Robert A. Gamble, who for the past five years has been connected with the Colony Club Hotel as room clerk and office manager, recently resigned this position and has opened Sunset Inn in South Sudbury, Mass., twenty miles from Boston. This is one of the beauty spots on the Boston to Worcester road and Mr. Gardner intends to operate an exclusive inn catering to the Boston smart set. The services of a famous colored chef have been engaged and a specialty will be chicken and waffle dinners.

SIPPICAN IS GAY WITH SOCIAL EVENTS

Life at Sippican, the well known hotel operated by Charles M. Eckerds, Marion, Mass., on Buzzards Bay is just a succession of enjoyable social events, these days. The festivities during the past week have included a dinner given on Tuesday by the Misses Cudahy to the crew of their yawl, a banquet of 150 guests from Fall River, New Bedford, Pawtucket and Taunton at which tennis, games, swimming, sailing and bathing were enjoyed in the afternoon and dancing in the evening and bagatel, pool and bridge tournaments. The latest entertainment was won by Mrs. Frederick Wernick of New York City, the prize by Mr. Frederick Wernick and the Bridge tournament by Mrs. Edmond Smith of Brooklyn. The Misses Cudahy are now being played for the tennis tournament.

AERO SERVICE TO BALSAMS.

Mr. Henry Kingsbury and Miss Ruth Kingsbury made the round trip from New York to the Balsams at Dixville Notch, N. H., the week. Miss Kingsbury having the distinction of being the first woman passenger of the Garden City Balsams aero service. The approach for the last week of August finds the Boston and New England colonies most active in the various events and functions at this resort. The flag tournament was played off last Monday and won by Mrs. Ralph A. Adams and Irving Hockstadter. Fred Stone donated the prizes for this event. The masquerade ball which will be held Saturday night promises to outshine those of other years in brilliancy and numbers. New England golf seen at the Balsams country club the past week included Mr. and Mrs. J. Marshall Duane of Boston, Mr. and Mrs. George Peabody and Edward T. Peabody of Boston, Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Bacon of Wellesley Hills, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Pitcher of Belmont, Mrs. M. L. Cox and the Misses Cox and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Prendergast of Dedham. Mr. and Mrs. Antin Kidder and the Misses Kidder of Winchester, and Dr. and Mrs. S. Russell of Belmont.

GOOD CHEER AT THE WILLARD

One of the most delightful houses in sunny New Hampshire is the Hotel Willard, located in East Jaffrey 1,085 feet above sea level, and only sixty-seven miles from Boston. Seventy miles inland, snuggled close to the grand old Mt. Monadnock, Jaffrey offers a cure free, nerve soothing. Summer, a weekend visit or even a spin for a day. The Willard is well known for its comfort and good cheer and those who once enjoy the hospitality of its host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Willard, become enthusiastic boosters for this house and for Jaffrey. Large airy rooms may be had with or without private baths. The best of home cooked food is provided. Trout and bass fishing and bowling are enjoyed on the nearby lake and the climb to the summit of Mt. Monadnock is a favorite one. Lovers of more strenuous exercise will find golf, tennis and horseback riding at hand. An excellent garage is maintained in connection with the house.

PROFILE HOUSE TO BE REBUILT

Mr. Carl P. Ayer, manager and proprietor of the Profile House, which recently burned at Franconia, N. H., announced that the 1924 season will open in the Profile House and [illegible] the old destroyed.

The new house will be built on Profile Lake, under the shadow of the Old Man of the Mountain and a few hundred feet from the site of the former house. It is the plan to construct a golf course and it will be the best in the White Mountains.

The Profile House has always been noted for its distinguished visitors and at the time of its fire among the guests were Governor and Mrs. Channing H. Cox of Massachusetts, Senator James O'German of New York, Admiral and Mrs. W. M. P. Burrow, who was a classmate of General Pershing at West Point and never ceased promoting leaders of Boston and New York society.

MUCH ACTIVITY AT BRETTON WOODS.

Bretton Woods is having an unusually active season and many well known Boston people are there for the season or for week ends on the always popular automobile tours of the White Mountains resorts. The annual concert at the Mount Pleasant House, last Thursday evening, of the Choir Boys of St. Paul's Cathedral and Bretton Woods, was attended by a large gathering of Mount Pleasant and Mount Washington guests, and with other diversions, the week has been unusually active.

An interesting guest here last week for a few days was Mrs. J. H. Macleon, wife of Colonel J. H. Macleon, Canada's delightful magazine publisher, and an intimate friend of Frank Munsey's. Mrs. Macleon, who was Miss Anna Blade of Chicago, is the daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Daniel Denison Slade, has lived for many years in Toronto, but has a great affection for Boston. She left Bretton Woods on Tuesday to visit her sisters on Lake Winnipesaukee, Mrs. Orin Mrs. Jordan L. Dumaresq of Boston, has a summer home, and here her brother, Dr. Daniel Denison Slade, lived for years on his farm at Centre Harbor. Following this visit, Mrs. Macleon will go to Saranac, Skyrings and Watkins Glen before returning to Canada.

FETE CROWDS WATCH PORTSMOUTH FIRE

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 24.—The family of W. Cotz, including several children, were driven to the street in their night clothing early today by a fire caused by the explosion of an oil stove in their home on Maple avenue, Christian Hill. Thousands of persons on their way home from the local celebration stopped to watch the blaze and traffic was held up for some time. The two-story building was used as a dwelling in the upper story and a grocery store in the ground floor. Damage was estimated at $800.

Staircase That You Must CLIMB

It's the Staircase Leading to Success, and It Is NOT an Escalator

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

Mr. Westover, who makes comic pictures and asks young people to send in moral mottoes, gets one from Miss Lulu Bird that deserves wider publicity than a comic strip can give it.

This is Miss Lulu Bird's motto, that should be framed and hung up in offices where young men work:

REMEMBER, THE LADDER OF SUCCESS IS NOT AN ESCALATOR

The sign above is not very big, but it would pay many young men, and some old ones, to cut it out and keep it, pasting it up somewhere on a desk or in a drawer for frequent private inspection.

The escalator is a wonderful invention. You walk straight along, stand still, and the first thing you know what WAS the flat floor becomes a staircase, and UP you go, with no effort at all. The escalator does it.

It's wonderful, but it isn't so in the REAL LIFE of competition.

In REAL LIFE, when you haven't got your father's money or some other lucky accident to push you up, you must climb every step of the staircase, or every rung of the ladder, as Miss Lulu Bird puts it, relying on your own muscles and your OWN strength.

And if you want to amount to anything among others, you must KEEP GOING.

There is no SUBSTITUTE for hard work. There is no "just as good" as hard climbing.

Many stand and wait, expecting that things will go upward of themselves. They see people pass them, and sometimes they are envious. If they would look a little more closely, they would observe that all of those passing are CLIMBING and going, grunting and puffing, not standing still and taking things quietly. On behalf of more than a million young American citizens, this newspaper extends its thanks and appreciation to Miss Lulu Bird for an excellent motto, and to Mr. Westover for printing it.

Thought Only Real Power Possessed by Man

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

We human beings ceased to be animals and became MEN when we first used thought in place of brute strength.

At some distant day in our development the animal that preceded us here made up its feeble mind that there was something better than strength, teeth and claws, and began to use its little brain.

This animal, our ancestor, the so-called pithecanthropus, or monkey-man, observed the sabre-toothed tiger ripping open the stomach of a monster three times its size, watched the mammoth ploughing through swamps, crushing down trees, observed the great reptiles and all other proofs of brute force, and, without realizing it, this ancestor said vaguely to himself:

"I can't compete when it comes to teeth and claws, weight and bulk. I am a feeble thing in this jumble of power and battle. I must THINK the way out."

And so our real human life began.

Our ancestor, with a forehead one-quarter of an inch high, a jaw that stuck out as far as the jaw of a gorilla, with teeth bigger than any of those of any bulldog, and with long arms dropping below the knees, that could crush a man of today with ease, this old ancestor of ours decided that he would get out of the battle for supremacy of muscle and teeth and see what could be done with the brain AND WITH THINKING.

You can imagine how the thinking process started.

It was hardly real thought at first, just a kind of intelligent impulse. Our ancestor sat up in a tree rubbing his nose and looking at the sabre-toothed tiger than couldn't climb.

He saw the shining teeth, six inches long perhaps, and he didn't like the look of them.

Later, when the tiger was gone, he clumbed down and picked up a sharp flint, ten inches long, heavier, sharper and harder than the tiger's tooth.

He held this in his hand, struck his brother with it, killed the brother, and felt highly satisfied with his intellectual accomplishment.

He had discovered that a tooth made of stone, held at the end of an arm four feet long, could do as much damage as the tooth of a tiger.

Later man used explosive dynamite shells in place of sharp flints, he dwelt in skyscrapers in places of holes in the rocks, he used flying machines in place of canoes dug out of a log.

BUT ALL THE TIME HE WAS A THINKING ANIMAL INSTEAD OF AN ANIMAL RELYING ON STRENGTH, TEETH, MUSCLE, THICK HIDE, CLAWS.

And every step that he gained in his upward climb toward control of the earth and dominion over the animals was gained by the THOUGHT that was started when he made up his mind to use the sharp flint and conquer the long white tooth.

Readers, whether you be old or young, realize NOW that your salvation, your hope, your chances in life, are all in the thinking power hidden away in your head.

Rogers a Candidate

So Congressman Rogers of Massachusetts has announced his candidacy for delegate to the next National Republican Convention, pledged to the nomination of Calvin Coolidge for President

If President Coolidge shows himself to be as independent on all matters as Congressman Rogers has been on the coal question, he will continue a successful career, of which the support by Mr. Rogers is a good omen.

WORLD EVENTS YIELD RIGHT-OF-NEWS TO A STOLEN CHILD

By Herbert Kaufman

A JAPANESE submarine, with full crew aboard, and a United States gunboat, from which all hands are saved, go down in gales.

The bitterest battle waged between capital and labor since the Homestead strikes is threatened as a consequence of futile coal negotiations.

A conference of Governors in the principal anthracite consuming States is called for August 28. Government control of the Pennsylvania fields, while not indicated, isn't out of the picture.

President Coolidge takes a definite stand against intervening abroad.

Poincare delivers his belated answer to Britain, counterproposes an allied corporation for operating Rhine railroads and Ruhr mines, suggests the collection of customs in gold specie for entente benefit, and recommends the levying of a 26 per cent. export tax on all Teuton shipments.

Mail plane flight from San Francisco to New York is made in 29 hours; yet the one outstanding feature of the news, and chief public concern at this minute, is the recovery of Baby McKenzie.

Typhoons, furnace bins, political aspirations and diplomatic gestures are momentarily obscured by the search for a lost mite.

Circumstance and environment shall alter many a primal urge, but nature saw to it that beast and bird and man would forever lay down life to defend their nurslings.

We shall never see the day when communities won't shudder at child-stealing.

Heredity and tradition establish the kidnaper as a common menace. Flock, herd, tribe, clan and society alike cry vengeance upon the despoiler of nest and cradle.

Join the hue and cry! Watch your block, scan your neighborhood, look out for furtive strangers with wizened, fragile babies! Rather suspect a thousand innocents than that one wolf should escape.

Then let's amend criminal laws and make kidnaping a capital offence.

Who knows! The next such blow may be delt at your own nursery.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON NAPOLEON CAVE MEN

Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

WITH the yearly accumulating discoveries of the remains and achievements of prehistoric man the evidence is strengthened that, even when he had not better homes than natural caverns, he was fundamentally, not only in body but in mind, what he is today. Some persons seem to be surprised by this. They think, apparently, that there could not have been much intelligence when there was no gunpowder.

There is to be found in a place where surely nobody would ever have thought of looking for such a thing a very interesting statement concerning the conditions of life in the primitive age of man kind. This statement among the manuscripts written by Napoleon Bonaparte, when he was a very young man and when he had not yet caught sight of the "star of destiny" that was to lead him up to his solitary peak of human fame.

His brooding genius had induced him to ponder upon Rousseau's famous doctrines concerning man's earliest social state, and after annotating Rousseau's discourse with repeated expressions of dissent, such as "Je ne croie pas cela" (I don't believe that), the young Napoleon sets down his own "reflections on the state of nature," as follows:

"I think that man never was a wandering, isolated being, without connections, without need of his fellow-men. On the contrary, I believe that, once emerged from infancy and arrived at the age of adolescence, the individual must felt the necessity of companionship, that he united himself with a woman, picked out some cavern, which lay at the centre of his daily excursions, to be his refuge in tempests and at night and his storehouse for provisions. This union was strengthened by habit and by the bond of children; nevertheless, it might be broken through caprice.

"I think that in the course of their excursions two savages who had once met accidentally met again, and on recognizing one another became friendly. They felt a desire to bring their dwellings-places nearer together. They did bring them nearer, and in that instant the natural peuplade (group forming a primitive community) was born. I believe that this peuplade lived happily because it had a shelter against the seasons, an abundance of nourishment, and good results, and because it possessed the sentiment of natural religion.

"Why do we assume that man ate when in the state of nature? Because no example exists of man living by any other means than eating. I believe that in the state of nature man had the same faculties of feeling and reasoning (as now). He must have used them, for there is no example of man ever having existed without the use of these two faculties. . . . Man must have known pity, friendship and love, from then gratitude, veneration, respect. If it were true that sentiment and reason are not inherent in man, but only the fruits of society, then there would be no natural sentiment and reason, no duty owed to virtue, no happiness for virtue."

Thus in his youth dreamed the man of Marengo, Austerlitz, Waterloo and St. Helena!

THREE-MINUTE TRIPS

QUEER DIVORCE CEREMONY

By TEMPLE MANNING

IF some one told you he was going to Cochin-China, you would probably think he was going to China, wouldn't you?

But as it happens, Cochin-China is not in China, and has nothing to do with China, except that China is its northern boundary, and the China sea its southern boundary.

Cochin-China is the name applied to the eastern strip of the Indo-Chinese peninsula and includes three distinct countries—Annam, Tong-king and a French colony known as Lower Cochin-China.

Cochin-China is famous for its homely people. It is said that they are the ugliest and "worst-formed of any of the Mongolian races. They are also of a much darker hue than other Asiatics.

The tribes in the interior of Cochin-China are just one degree removed from a state of savagery. Their civilization is of the lowest form.

The Cochin-Chinese are a lazy, indolent, phlegmatic race, but with a surprising respect for their parents and elders and a high regard for any one connected with the government.

Only one real industry exists in this part of the world—the cultivation of rice. It is left to the Chinese settlers there to carry on any commerce or to conduct any business that may be done.

The natives are content to raise the rice, live simply and laugh and joke the days away.

To the traveler who is accustomed to hearing the Chinese language the Cochin tongue will have a familiar sound, although it is not the pure Chinese language.

Many customs will also remind the traveler of those of China.

For instance, the Cochins use chopsticks to eat rice, just as their neighbors, the Chinese, do.

But in Cochin-China, at certain times the chopsticks have an important bearing on the conditions of family life.

For, if a Cochin-Chinese woman decides for any reason that her husband is unworthy of her, or has displeased her in any way, or if she is perhaps justified of him, she severs her relation as wife by the chopstick.

For, in Cochin-China, a woman divorces her husband simply by breaking two chopsticks in the presence of witnesses.

Hard Work to Earn Enough

Editor Helping Hand

I feel sure that all think there are some good people in this town. We don't know them personally, as we have come a stranger to this town, but we have been kindly treated by various kind souls who sent me clothing, as I agreed to. It is pretty hard for us to get along, with four of us and not a penny coming in except what I earn making soldiers and doing whatever sewing I get to do. I wish we could get some cross-stitch to do; I just size 30 waist and 30 leg. I like to ask no more but would be looked upon as a beggar. I would get a big fight with my husband if he knew I asked for anything, as he is a shoemaker, but lost three fingers of one hand.

MRS. M. E. P.

Will Get Their Games

Editor Helping Hand

I am the oldest of four brothers. We would very much like some games, but we cannot afford to buy them. My father is dead, and we are poor in the family. If this has already been given away I hope you will remember us the next chance.

R. T. W.

You have been at the address of H. W. J., who visited the games. We hope they bring a lot of pleasure.

Offers a Stroller

Editor Helping Hand

I have a stroller which some mother can have. It is not brand new, but can give quite a little service still. I wonder if some reader has a wringer they don't need? I would also like to hear from some lady who makes rag rugs, as I would like to buy a couple. I also have a few clothes to fit a woman size 38 or 40, which I will send to anyone you say.

MRS. M. L. C.

Here's a Tip, Mr. Ford

Editor Boston American

One would think from the remarks by Henry Ford regarding the World War hero and the bonus that no one near and dear to him lost his life, or, worse yet, returned from the firing line without loss of limb or senses. If Ford could take a trip or two to the institutions where our disabled heroes are confined, perhaps he would change his mind regarding the unrewarded hero.

Those Late Shoppers

Editor Boston American

Speaking of public improvements, why do not women do their shopping in other than subway rush hours? We men, after a hard day's work, consider it our duty to give up our seats to women struggling with countless bundles, but in the majority of instances we are more taxed than these inconsiderate shoppers. And if we don't surrender our seats well, then we're brutes.

For Girl of Sixteen

Editor Helping Hand

I have a [illegible] are too small for [illegible] and would fit a girl of sixteen.

MRS. [illegible]

Thank you. You have sent the address of Mrs. W. H., whose husband has died from rheumatism [illegible] work. She has a daughter sixteen.

$5 for Mrs. F. I.

Editor Helping Hand

Enclosed find [illegible] for Mrs. F. I., the [illegible] old lady. Sorry [illegible]. Don't use [illegible] send me the address.

M. M. M.

Many thanks [illegible] generously. We are sending it on in spite of your letter, because we think people like to know that those in need are really getting helped. You have been sent the addresses of Mrs. F. I. and Mrs. H. E. M., and the five dollars is being forwarded.

Boy and Girl in Need

Editor Helping Hand

Is there any one of your columns who would like to take on a little boy and girl, ten and eight, who live quite a distance from Boston? Their father died a few months ago and left them with very little to get along with. Won't you please print my request for clothes for a boy sixteen. His shoes are size 9. He has to wear them high, as his leg was broken a year ago, and a size 38 in clothes. I am only too willing to buy them if someone has them to sell reasonable. I would also like to buy a bicycle cheap for him to go to and from work on. I am ill myself and have only him to depend on, but I willingly will give all I can to help the cause.

MRS. M. H.

Thank you indeed for all you have done for Mrs. W.

THE HELPING HAND

Do Not Inclose Stamps. Letters Not Answered Personally. No Attention Paid to Telephone Calls or Anonymous Letters. No Names Published

Their mother works hard for a dollar a day, which hardly feeds them. They are all in need of clothes, especially the boy. The eight-year-old girl takes size 10 shoes. I will send them anything I may receive. I am doing all I can for them, but I have a family of my own to care for.

MRS. M. E. D.

Needs School Clothes

Editor Helping Hand

I am a widow. My husband died in service. I am suffering from Bright's disease. I have a boy ten years old who takes size 14, and he is badly in need of things to wear to school. I also have a baby two who needs clothes, and I need shoes size 5 E. I would be thankful for anything that was given to the children.

MRS. E. D.

Mattress Offered

Editor Helping Hand

Kindly send me the address of someone who would like an old silk-floss mattress, four-foot bed size, and oblige.

C. A. W.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of Mrs. C. K., whose children have had to sleep on old coats for want of a mattress.

Generous Giver

Editor Helping Hand

I have sent Mrs. W. of Roxbury two large bundles. The first had blouses for her boys, two pairs of pants, and overalls and other things, and the second bundle had two suits for the boys, more blouses, waists for herself and rompers for the baby.

Offers Baby Carriage

Editor Helping Hand

Please give my name and address to someone needing a baby carriage in good condition.

MRS. M. S.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of Mrs. I. B. F., mother of seven children, who had to leave her husband because of his drunkenness.

Other Offers

The editor wishes to express his sincere thanks to the following people for their generous offers of assistance to those in need. They have been sent the addresses they request:

Mrs. P. A., Rochdale—Maternity corsets and other things for Mrs. M. G. 4. Mrs. A. C. G., Kittery, Me.—Rompers, coats and other things for Mrs. W. M., 4's two boys. E. S., Newtonville—Coat and other things for Mrs. L. W. M., the poor old lady of eighty. Mrs. L. H. G., Gloucester—Orders for quilt tops for the woman who makes them.

The Fairest and Richest at Gay Deauville

Just Glance at This Brilliant Array of Fashion Flocking to France's Playground, Where Roulette and Racing Rival Gowns and Gold in Vivid Display

Countess Kitty Schonborn, the "Venus of Vienna," Lending Lustre to Deauville.

PARIS.

JOLLY old Deauville, for many years the Summer home of fashion, frivolity and frantic gaming furore, is at it again. Out of Paris, out of Rome, out of Berlin and New York and Copenhagen have been pouring rivulets of wealthy and distinguished folk, to swell the stream of mad gayety at the French watering place, where royal heads have bent feverishly over the roulette wheel, and the new—and old—rich of many lands have indulged in the most capricious pranks.

But this season, dispatches state, Deauville is outdoing all her former records for brilliance. Not even in the days—and nights—when King Alfonso, the "cut-up of Europe," gravely bestowed regal decorations upon American girls for skill in fox-trotting with him, did the colorful resort shine with such lustre.

Countess de Filippi, the Italian Noblewoman, Who Flits from the Riviera to French Watering Places Yearly.

Not even in the days (so the more communicative of the tourists are writing their friends) when Peggy Hopkins was the toast of the town, was Deauville so blazing with interest—social and financial. It would seem that the "Queen of north coast beaches" is out to show the Continent that she still holds her place at the head of the procession—and means to keep it!

To the initiated in European pleasure-seeking, there has never been any spot more alluring than Deauville. It is admitted that for a time her rivalry with neighboring resorts was whetted to a knife's edge. Sly Pourville, intriguing Trouville, and the ever-enticing Riviera tried to divert the attention—and the pocket-books—of Deauville's faithful annual visitors. And there were the gray, sullen days of the war, too, when patronage was clouded with the sinister shadow of the times.

But these times, chuckles Deauville, are gone—forever. A new and scintillating Summer has set in on those sands where international beauties glitter quite as dazzlingly as the waves, and where the chink of gold pieces in the Casino resounds as merrily as the laughter of the children on the dunes.

The guest-books at the prominent hotels read like rosters of British, American, Italian and French Blue Books. The stage is represented by various celebrities—mainly feminine, and heavily diamond-studded. And surcharging the festive activities of all these picturesque and noted people is the electric crackle of countless bank notes. For currency is the current that Deauville's emotional powerhouse generates.

Four years ago a famous American actress declared that Deauville possessed "all the allurements and attractions of Palm Beach in January, Pasadena in March, Atlantic City in May, Bar Harbor in July, and French Lick in September." This season sports are in the ascendant again, making her remark doubly true for there one may golf, play tennis, attend the races and dance—if the last named be, indeed, a sport, as some of the few censorious onlookers think.

But while every game has its devotees, when all's said and done, there is but one true test of a Deauvillite's authenticity—the track. There, any afternoon, one can see lolling in camp chairs, sprawled informally on the turf edges, or strolling about whispering "something" to fair companions, those overlords of the financial world, termed laughingly, but with a touch of awe, "purse princes," who have found a vacation a necessity; a beautiful holiday-setting a luxury which they can afford, and charming acquaintances—a triple necessity.

But it is not only at the track that one glimpses the "fairest and richest." The Casino, magnet of millionaires, has been doing a prosperous business. The lure of the green baize is proving as potent as ever, though, happily, no scandals have yet developed to shock the crowd. Many of the latter remember tales of the "goings-on" which had a decidedly spectacular "atmosphere."

There was, for instance, the grand melee when the then Mrs. Frank J. Gould (Edith Kelly, whose dainty toes twinkled in American musical comedy) chastised a waiter for "impertinence," being aided in her fistic artistry by Erskine Gwynne, nephew of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt. This hectic incident closed the season with a literal and figurative black eye; but the only "punch" of the current period has been in the huge sums wagered—many of them by Americans, by the way.

When it is said that the current season has lacked the "punch" of scandal, don't infer that Deauville is dull. Punch is only one kind of intoxicant, and in the other kinds "La Plage Fleurie" is abounding, especially the cocktail of incident and the champagne of innuendo.

They DO say, for instance, that the butterflies and the money barons are still laughing at the rumored feud between a prominent grand opera tenor and a famous big game hunter over a certain alluring French musical comedienne—a feud which which began with threats of a duel and wound up with vows of brotherly love over a bubbling bottle. That the lady in the case joined the erstwhile "duelists" in their fraternal celebration is considered the biggest joke of all by the gabbling gossips. And there are other, similar tales equally amusing.

While the more avid sportsmen and sportswomen arise fairly early, not to miss any of the events, Deauville's preference, in general, is for late hours and late breakfasts. Sleeping in the daytime and sitting up o' nights has lost none of its potent appeal. The biggest gambling plays, Parisians observe, continue often till nine in the morning, when coffee is brought for the jaded thrill-hunters, who throng the terrace for "cafe noir" to steady nerves made shaky by hour-long application to the wheel and calm those ears jangled by the croupiers' cries.

But these minor "misfortunes" are merely welcome discords in the symphony of enjoyment which "La Plage Fleurie" is playing for its 1923 guests. Fashion and wealth seem to enjoy an occasional "sour note" in their music—that music which rolls on, to the clatter of francs and the glitter of new modes at that feverish, festive and frolicksome spot, called by King Alfonso "Crasyville"—and not without reason, either!

Medbury Says—

By John P. Medbury

A COLLEGE professor says the reason women dislike to work in the kitchen is that it's the most unattractive room in the house. This could be remedied by moving the sink and the gas stove into the parlor.

IF she did this it would be easy to play the piano with one hand and wash the dishes with the other.

IT would be very simple to make an ice box out of the phonograph and keep meat and vegetables in it instead of records.

THEN when company called and requested you to play something for them you could ask them what they'd prefer to hear, a lamb chop or a banana.

BY cutting egg plant into thin slices they ought to make very good records.

HOWEVER, it would be almost impossible to get any music out of mashed potatoes.

BUT if you had one of the old Edison cylinder talking machines you wouldn't have any trouble at all playing corn on the cob.

THERE'S no reason why the manufacturers can't make electric planos with folding sinks in them.

WHEN you listen to some of them play they sound like they're filled with pots and pans.

OF course this would apply to cheaper planos; nobody would want to have a baby grand with faucets on it.

A TWENTY FIVE hundred dollar piano wouldn't look very attractive with a hot water heater fastened to the side.

Still, it would be a very bad policy to move your kitchen into the parlor. The company could see what you were cooking to give them for dinner and if they didn't like what you were cooking they'd get up and go home.

Most living rooms have hardwood floors and these would save the housewife a lot of steps. She could slide from the stove to the sink.

If they were near enough she could probably make it in one fall.

The advantage of slippery hardwood floors is that it saves you a lot of walking as you're sitting down most of the time.

The tradesmen could deliver all your meat and groceries to the parlor, but of course you'd want them delivered in the evening so that your guests could pay for them.

If this met with success you could also have your wood and coal brought in the same way.

Moving the gas stove, sink and ice box into the parlor is a good idea but after a woman got through doing the work there, the chances are she'd take a magazine and go out and sit in the kitchen.

While passing a delicatessen store with my little sister, two and a half years old, we stopped to watch the man wash the windows. When the man threw a bucketful of water over the window my sister exclaimed, to the amusement of the passersby, "Oh, Mary, the man is giving the glass a drink!"

All dressed up in my Sunday-go-to-meeting best, I had just got seated in a large and fashionably attired audience, when some kindly woman reached over and pinned the sleeve of my dress, which had ripped nearly half-way out—it had been sewn into the dress with one of those easy-ripping sewing machines—back into its proper place.

Ephraim—What you call it when a girl gits married two times—bigotry?

Rastus—Laws, boy, you suttinly is ignormus. Why, when a gal gits married two times, dat am bigotry, but when she marries de third time, dat am trigonometry.
